TAFT IS FIRM, WITH PRINCIPLE INVOLVED

Wouldn't Compromise With Foraker and His Crowd, if to Refuse Had Meant Defeat.

PROVES HIS FITNESS FOR HIGHEST OFFICE

Roosevelt Makes Public a Letter Written by Candidate Prior to Chicago Convention, Wherein Compromise Resolution Linking Names of Taft and Foraker Together for Indorsement Is Turned Down.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Late today Secretary Loeb gave to representatives of the press a formal statement by the President, which was called forth by the recent exchanges between William R. Hearst and Senator Foraker of Ohio. Mr. Hearst, in public utterances, had accused the senator of relations with the Standard Oil company inconsistent with his duties as a senator and his attitude as a representative of Republican policies and professions.

In today's statement, President Roosevelt makes another appeal for the support of Mr. Taft and declares that his defeat would bring "lasting satisfaction to but one set of men, namely, to those men who, as shown in the correspondence published by Mr. Hearst, were behind Mr. Foraker, the opponent of Mr. Taft within his own party and who now are behind Governor Haskell and his associates, the opponents of Mr. Taft in the opposite party."

The statement embodies a letter written by Mr. Taft to a friend in Ohio on July 20, 1907, in which the present Republican candidate for the presidency refused to acquiesce in the plan of the Ohio state central committee to indorse Mr. Taft for the

The President points out that Mr. Taft's attitude has been always directly opposed to that charged against Foraker by Mr. Hearst regarding the monied interests. The President cites the Brownsville affair as a case where the agitation was a phase of the effort "by the representatives of certain law-defying corporations to bring discredit upon the administration."

It was, he says, in large part, "not a genuine agitation on behalf of the colored men at all."

President Roosevelt made public the following statement today:

In view of Mr. Hearst's disclosure about Senator Foraker, I make public the following letter, written by Mr. Taft on July 20, 1907, to a friend in Ohio, prominent in Ohio politics, who wrote him before the meeting of the state central committee, asking whether he would object to the committee passing a resolution indorsing Mr. Taft for President and Mr. Foraker for senator, in the interest of harmony. A copy of this letter was submitted to me at the time, but after the original had been sent. It was not intended for publication, but it was understood that if necessary, it would be published.

Pays Taft High Tribute.

I personally know that the strongest pressure by various leaders was brought on Mr. Taft at that time to consent to the proposed arrangement and he was informed by leading men from other states that if he would consent to this arrangement, all opposition on the part of Foraker and on the part of some of Foraker's influential friends in the Senate and elsewhere would cease and that Mr. Taft's nomination for the presidency would be assured. But Mr. Taft declined for one moment to consider any possible advantage to himself where what he regarded as a great principle was at stake. His attitude on this question, as well as on countless questions, convinced me that of all the men in this Union, he was the man pre-eminently fit, in point of uprightness and character for fearless and aggressive honesty, and of fitness for championing the rights of the people as a whole, to be President.

Senator Foraker has been a leader among those members of Congress of both parties who have resolutely opposed the great policies of internal reform for which the administration has made itself responsible. His attitude has been that of certain other public men, notably (as shown in this same correspondence published by Mr. Hearst) Governor Haskell of Oklahoma. There is a striking difference in one respect, however, in the present positions of Governor Haskell and Senator Foraker. Governor Haskell stands high in the councils of Mr. Bryan and is the treasurer of his national campaign committee. Senator Foraker represents only the forces which, in embittered fashion, fought the nomination of Mr. Taft and which were definitely deprived of power within the Republican party when Mr. Taft was nominated.

Acts of Administration Justified.

The publication of this correspondence not merely justifies in striking fashion the action of the administration, but also casts a serious sidelight on the attacks made upon the administration, both in the Denver convention which nominated Mr. Bryan and in the course of Mr. Bryan's campaign. There is but one way to preserve and perpetuate the great reforms, the great advances in righteousness and uprightness and fair dealing, which have marked the management of the affairs of the national government during the last seven years, and that is by electing Mr. Taft. To defeat him will bring lasting satisfaction to but one set of men, namely, to those men who, as shown in the correspondence published by Mr. Hearst, were behind Mr. Foraker—the opponents of Mr. Taft within his own party—and who are now behind Governor Haskell and his associates—the opponents of Mr. Taft in the opposing party.

The great and sinister moneyed interests which have shown such hostility to the administration and now to Mr. Taft, have grown to oppose the administration on various matters not connected with those which mark the real point of difference. For instance, the entire agitation over Brownsville was in large part not a genuine agitation on behalf of colored men at all, but merely one phase of the effort by the representatives of certain law-defying corporations to bring discredit upon the administration because it was seeking to cut out the evils connected not only with the corrupt use of wealth, but especially with the corrupt alliance between certain business men of large fortunes and certain politicians of great office.

Opposed to Taft Nomination.

Venomous hostility of these interests and of their special representatives in public life and in the press, to the nomination of Mr. Taft was merely the natural sequence of their hostility to the measures of the administration for the regulation of great corporations doing an interstate business and to the attitude of the administration in consistently prosecuting all offenders of great wealth precisely as it has prosecuted all other offenders. Mr. Taft has been nominated for the very reason that he is the antithesis of the forces that were responsible for Mr. Foraker. The letter of Mr. Taft is as follows:

"War Department, Washington.
"Pointe Au Pic, Canada, July 20, 1907.
"My dear Mr. —

"In respect to one inquiry of yours, I wish to express myself with as much emphasis as possible, that is, whether I would object to a compromise resolution which shall include an indorsement of myself for the presidency and Senator Foraker for the senatorship. In my judgment it would be not only a great mistake—something more. It would be accepted necessarily as a compromise on my behalf, and, therefore, with my acquiescence, or at least with the acquiescence of my friends, for whose action I am more or less responsible. It would utterly misrepresent my position. I don't care for the presidency if it has to come by compromise with Senator Foraker or anyone else in a matter of principle. He has opposed the vital policies and principles of the administration and in his opposition has seized upon and magnified an important, but incidental matter, to embarrass the administration, using in this, without scruple, a blind race prejudice to accomplish his main purpose.

Question of Political Principle.

CHARTER ORDINANCE IS ORDERED PRINTED

POPULAR VOTE TO BE TAKEN AT GENERAL ELECTION.

Special Ballot Box to Be Used for the Vote on This Question.

As the step toward a popular vote on the question of holding a charter convention, the City Council, in compliance with the charter petition recently submitted, last night ordered printed an ordinance providing for the holding of the charter convention election in connection with the general election on November 3.

The special committee, to which was referred the petition, reported that it contains the signatures of more than the number required to constitute a legal petition for such purpose. The ordinance, which has been prepared, was unanimously ordered sent to the printer, on motion of Holden.

Special Ballot Box.

According to the ordinance, a separate ballot box shall be devoted to the charter convention vote. Slips marked "For the Charter Convention," and "Against the Charter Convention," shall be prepared by the city clerk, to be used as ballots by the voters.

The judges of election shall, within 24 hours after the closing of the polls, certify the returns of the charter question vote to the city clerk, who, in turn, shall submit these returns to the Council at its first meeting after the election.

If a majority of the qualified electors voting on the question are in favor of holding a charter convention, a second election will be held to choose 21 members of the convention. These members shall, within 60 days, submit a proposed special charter, and a third election will then be held, at which the voters will cast ballots for the separate sections of the proposed special charter. If the charter is rejected the members of the convention will then submit another proposed charter to a vote of the people. The charter becomes the special charter of the city of Colorado Springs on adoption by a vote of the people.

GARBAGE CONTRACT LET BY ALDERMEN

EL PASO UTILIZATION ASSOCIATION GETS WORK.

Haas Plumbing Company to Lay Deep Sewer on Tejon St. Considerable Routine.

Colorado Springs will have its garbage taken care of for [illegible] under the direction of the association, under bond of $2,400, according to a contract let by the City Council last night.

By unanimous vote, the aldermen accepted a proposal of the El Paso Utilization association, and authorized the mayor and city clerk to sign a contract for four years with the association. The contract will provide that all garbage be removed from the city under the direction of the health department and as many times as required, for $1,200 annually. The association is to give a bond of $2,400.

Will Begin Work Today.

G. W. Girling is president of the contracting association, F. A. Morath, secretary, and George S. Elstun, treasurer. The work of removing the garbage, which has been at a standstill in the residence district since last Tuesday, will begin this morning.

The Council ordered sent to the printer an ordinance issuing bonds not to exceed $75,[illegible] for the payment of parking improvements on North Cascade avenue, between Platte avenue and Cache la Poudre street. The bonds are payable April 15, 1918, and bear 6 per cent interest, payable semi-annually.

The N. W. Haas Plumbing company was awarded the contract to construct 500 feet of deep sewer on Tejon street, between Pikes Peak avenue and Huerfano street. The cost will be $962.50. The deep sewer is necessary because of the proposed new Exchange Bank building, which will have an especially deep basement.

Bids of Sidewalk.

HEARST LAUGHS AT HASKELL CHALLENGE

WON'T ACCEPT SUGGESTION OF ARBITRATION BOARD.

Editor Declares Court Records Accuse Oklahoman—Has "Sense of Humor if Not of Honor."

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—W. R. Hearst, who has been campaigning for the national ticket of the Independence party in the south and middle west, returned to this city tonight and soon afterward issued a statement concerning the challenge of Governor C. N. Haskell of Oklahoma. In his recent speeches, Mr. Hearst had charged that Haskell, who is now treasurer of the Democratic national committee, had sought, in 1899, to influence Attorney General Frank S. Monnett of Ohio to dismiss certain suits then pending against the Standard Oil company. In a telegram to Mr. Hearst, which he made public last night, Governor Haskell invited Mr. Hearst to publicly prove his charges before a committee of editors.

Mr. Hearst refuses to accept the suggestion of an editorial board of arbitration in the following language:

To the Associated Press:

I address this communication to you, as I cannot have the slightest correspondence or controversy with a man of Mr. Haskell's character.

Mr. Haskell's proposition reminds me of the well-known story of the burglar who was caught in the act by the police. When the police burst in upon him, they found him in front of a safe which had been blown open, with his tools in his pocket, a dark lantern in one hand and his other hand on the valuables in the safe. The police dragged the burglar to the court room, and the judge said to the culprit:

"Well, what have you to say for yourself?"

The burglar said:

"Look-a-here, judge, let's arbitrate this case."

The court records, the complaint of the ex-attorney general of Ohio, Mr. Monnet, the affidavit of the present assistant of the present attorney general of Ohio, Mr. Burnett, the records of the state prosecution in the Prairie Oil and Gas company case, accuses Mr. Haskell, and [illegible] Mr. Haskell has [illegible] in which to sue Mr. [illegible] and committee [illegible] Haskell as one of the [illegible] tempted to bribe him in the Standard Oil case.

Mr. Haskell's proposition to arbitrate the matter now shows that he has a sense of humor even if he has not a sense of honor.

WILBUR WRIGHT NOW HAS WORLD'S RECORD

STAYS IN AIR ONE HOUR AND THIRTY-ONE MINUTES.

Because of Accident to Orville Wright's Machine, Flight at Lemans Attracts Attention.

LEMANS, Sept. 21.—In the presence of the officials of the French Aero club of Sarthe, the American ambassador, Henry White, General [illegible], commander of the Fourth army corps, a large number of French and foreign officers and aeroplane experts, and a wildly cheering crowd, numbering 10,000, Wilbur Wright, the American aeroplanist, this afternoon accomplished a signal triumph, capturing the world's record from his brother, Orville Wright, with a marvelously impressive flight in his machine of one hour, 31 minutes and 51 seconds, covering in that time an actual distance of 98 kilometers, or nearly 61 miles.

Owing to the recent accident at Fort Meyer today's trial for the Michelin cup for the greatest distance covered by an aeroplane in 1908, and the Aero club prize of $1,000 for the longest flight over enclosed ground, attracted intense interest. Wright at first appeared nervous, and ill-luck seemed to be pursuing him. The wind was too high in the morning to permit of flight, and when it fell, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, Wright made three false starts, owing to the oblique direction of the breeze and trouble experienced with the cradle.

Finally, at 5:15, after the direction of the starting had been changed to point in the teeth of the breeze, which was then blowing gently at about four miles an hour, the aviator got away nicely, sailing majestically up the field.

BISHOP CARMICHAEL DEAD

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—Rev. James Carmichael, lord bishop of Montreal, died today at his home in this city, aged 73 years. On September 11 the bishop returned to Montreal from London, where he had been in attendance at the Panangelican congress and Lambeth conference. Yesterday morning he occupied the pulpit of Christ cathedral and preached a sermon describing the great church meeting in London. At the close of the sermon he grew faint and was assisted to the vestry, and soon after taken to his home. He grew gradually worse until the end came, the physicians attributing his death to a [illegible]

BRYAN PREPARED TO MEET ANY ARGUMENT

FEELS THAT HE IS RUNNING AGAINST TWO PERSONS.

Commoner Hurls Defiance at Opposition—Becomes Much More Aggressive.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 21.—"The President has seen fit to give the Republican candidate another indorsement. It seems that I am running against two Republicans instead of one, but our platform is so plain and the purpose of our party is so well expressed in that platform that I am prepared to meet the argument of one or both of them."

Hurling defiance at his Republican opponents, W. J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for President, speaking here tonight before an immense audience, so declared himself. Democracy's leader reached this city at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Cheering crowds at the station and along the streets greeted him on the way to the hotel, where he remained but a few moments before he was whisked away in an automobile to Humboldt park, where he spoke to a vast throng. From the park he went to Convention hall, which was packed by thousands, while outside were quadruple the number, necessitating a brief overflow talk.

From the moment he began speaking in this state at Brockport, early in the day, until he had concluded his remarks here, the Democratic candidate took the bit in his teeth and assailed at every turn President Roosevelt, Mr. Taft and the Republican leaders. He spoke of the conflict which he said existed between the President and the Republican managers of campaigns; replied specifically to certain queries propounded to him in an open letter in the Chicago Tribune; attacked the President for what he said was his failure to enforce the antitrust laws and from which he said the President could not escape; denounced Senators Platt and Depew as having betrayed the people; charged the Republicans with turn-

KERN IS APPEALING TO BUSINESS MEN

SPEAKS TO LARGE CROWD AT ELKTON, MD.

"Men Engaged in Law Violation Hold Interests of County Between Themselves and Wrath of People."

ELKTON, Md., Sept. 21.—Men engaged in law violation are today seeking to draw to them the square-dealing, legitimate business interests of the country and to hold those interests up between themselves and the wrath of the people. John W. Kern, Democratic vice presidential candidate, thus described the business situation, as he declared it exists under Republican rule, in a speech in Mechanics hall tonight. Governor Crothers, whose home is here, was the host of Mr. Kern and preceded him with a brief introductory address.

Mr. Kern said that as one of his missions on this speaking tour was to have a plain talk with the business men of Maryland, he desired particularly to talk to those business men who were engaged in legitimate business, relying upon their own exertions and capacity and not looking to the government for special favors.

"All such men, he declared, were in-

PREVENTION OF TUBERCULOSIS

BODY MUST BE FORTIFIED AGAINST BACTERIA.

DANGER OF INFECTION GREAT

DISEASE MAY BE CONTRACTED IN MANY WAYS.

BACILLI OF VEGETABLE ORIGIN

After Germ Gets Into System it Soon Gets in Deadly Work, Unless Victim Is Physically Strong. Haskin Writes Interestingly on Subject.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

While the great tuberculosis congress is holding its sessions in Washington there are nearly a million sufferers from the disease in the United States. So eminent an authority as Dr. Osler states it as his belief that there are 1,250,000 people in the United States each year who suffer from it. It was he, also, who stated not long ago that we know enough about the tuberculosis bacillus already to encompass it, if only there is a nation-wide movement for putting this knowledge into effect.

The bacillus which causes tuberculosis is of vegetable origin. After it gets into the system it develops a toxin which is responsible for the hectic flush of the disease. There are just two things that must be done to prevent the spread of the disease. The one is to kill the bacteria and the other is to fortify the body against it. After all is said and done the suppression of tuberculosis depends upon these two things. Neither has yet been done on any scale of national scope.

Eminent surgeons with years of experience at the operating table declare that 98 out of every 100 people who come under the knife show some trace of tubercular trouble. At some time or other in the lives of the people the germ of the disease has been taken into the system and caused more or less suffering to the body. In most cases the system is strong enough to build a little internal jail around the point where the germs take hold, thus effectually checking the progress of the infection. Where the system is not strong enough, well developed tuberculosis is the result.

Germs Are Inhaled.

Perhaps most people contract tuberculosis from inhaling particles of dust carrying germs released by careless spitting. It is everywhere admitted that the mere breath of a consumptive is not infectious. But liquid particles containing the germs may be expelled during coughing, sneezing and talking. It has been demonstrated that these particles may remain in the air for a distance of some 20 feet, and then they will subside by gravitation. It may be said that perhaps three-fourths of the danger of getting tuberculosis lies in expectorated matter. Eliminate this and the danger from milk, and the battle will be largely won.

Ingestion is a frequent way of contracting tuberculosis. Perhaps the most frequent way in which it is taken into the stomach is through the milk supply. In a recent investigation of the Washington milk supply it was found that 18 per cent of the cows furnishing milk for Washington use had tuberculosis. As one or two cows having tuberculosis on each dairy farm may contaminate the whole milk supply of that farm, the percentage of people who use that particular milk infected with tubercular bacilli is vastly greater. There has been some difference of opinion as to whether man could get tuberculosis from the cow. At one time even the eminent Dr. Koch threw the weight of his opinion in the scales against the idea. But more recent and thorough experiments demonstrate conclusively that people do contract it from the cows.

Meat Is Tainted.

The tubercular infection is spreading to meats more rapidly under modern [illegible] conditions. The neighborhood creameries in the rural districts are responsible, more than anything else, for this. Infected skim milk from these establishments is fed to the hogs of the country around, and every porker that is not in the best of health falls a victim of the disease. Usually killing time arrives long before the symptoms of the disease become apparent to the unpracticed eye of the farmer, hence a great deal of meat is unconsciously tainted. Likewise, meats, vegetables and fruits kept in open market stalls or carried around by vendors, afford convenient resting places for floating germs, and thus the disease is carried into the homes of the people, a worse enemy than the burglar who takes their valuables at night or the thief who steals them by day.

The intelligent crusaders against tuberculosis would impress the people with the dangers of expectoration in public places. They would have public sentiment so aroused that it would not any more tolerate the consumptive spitting in public than it would the operations of the pickpocket; for while the one takes your pocketbook, the other threatens to rob you of your health. But they would remind the people at the same time that they must not lose sight of the [illegible] of

REPUBLICANS IN NEED OF MONEY

LONG SPEAKING CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN IMPOSSIBLE.

FUNDS ARE COMING IN SLOWLY

CONTRIBUTIONS SAVED FOR A WHIRLWIND FINISH.

SOLID MONTH OF HARD WORK

Paid Speakers Will Be Put in the Field October 1. State Quarrels Are Rapidly Being Settled. Situation in Indiana Said to Be Uncertain.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—That the funds necessary to defray the expense of a long, vigorous speaking campaign have not been forthcoming was frankly admitted today by Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock of the Republican national committee. The statement was made in explanation of the delays that have attended the beginning of the campaign work in most of the states.

"I have no apologies to make," he said. "We knew long ago that we could not waste our funds, and for that reason we decided that the proper thing to do was to get the states in shape for an effective campaign for the last month preceding election. To that end I have devoted most of my time to the adjustment of factional differences in a large number of states where the Republicans were not pulling together.

State Quarrels Settled.

"The last of the state quarrels which has needed the attention of the national committee is that in West Virginia, and I am in hopes that this will be settled at a conference to be held in that state tonight. I believe the result of that conference will be that both of the Republican factions which had candidates for governor will unite on a man who will be acceptable to the whole party."

Chairman Hitchcock expressed the opinion that if an active campaign can be carried on for 30 days during the month of October—the candidates on the national ticket will be successful in all of the normally Republican states and in most of the states that have been put in the doubtful column by opposition politicians.

"That was the theory when our plans were outlined at conferences which were held with the party leaders at Colorado Springs, Chicago, Boston and other places," said Mr. Hitchcock.

Costs Money for Speakers.

"We believed then that October 1 would be time enough to put speakers of national prominence and our paid speakers in the field. It costs a great deal of money to keep a large speaking force going and even if I had thought it necessary I would not have been able to start the paid men before Oc-

HITCHCOCK STILL IN SUPREME COMMAND

TAFT HAS NO INTENTION OF OUSTING CHAIRMAN.

Candidate Has Every Confidence in His Manager's Ability, and so Informs Him.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 21.—Judge Taft's telegram expressing confidence in National Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock, assuring him that he is in supreme control and welcoming with him the assistance of Senator Crane and the executive and advisory committee, was the one news production of the Republican party candidate today. The telegram was brought forth by publication this afternoon stating that the chairman was to be subordinated in the control of the campaign.

After sending the telegram, Mr. Taft made its contents public at once. It reads:

"Do not be disturbed by publications with reference to your management of the campaign of statements of an intention to supplant you in control. The presence of Senator Crane here gave rise to inference which I attempted to deprecate. I have every confidence in you and in the success of your management and I welcome the assistance as you do of Senator Crane and the ancillary committee, but you are in supreme command."

Further comment than this message, Mr. Taft indicated was unnecessary. The work to which Mr. Taft devoted the day, remaining at his residence, was the continued preparation of the speeches he is to make on his trip. John Hays Hammond, president of the National league of Republican clubs, reached the city today and had a conference with Mr. Taft.

Quite a number of the delegates to the league convention, which is to take place here tomorrow, have reached the city and others are to arrive tonight and in the morning.

A revised itinerary of the Taft western trip was announced today, with plans to take the candidate to Clinton, Burlington, Davenport and Des Moines September 24, immediately after he has concluded the Milwaukee meeting Thursday night. The party will then go to St. Paul and Minneapolis and [illegible] itinerary.

TO ESTABLISH AGES

Difficulties are in the preparations that are being made for the payment of old age pensions in Great Britain and Ireland in January. One of the most serious of them is the verification of the ages of the applicants. Compulsory registration of births was introduced into England in 1836, but a similar act was not enforced in Ireland till 1863 and in Scotland till 1854. It is believed that in Scotland the old parochial registers of births and deaths will serve the purpose. Those in existence before 1856 were forwarded to the registrar general at Edinburgh. In Ireland the difficulty will be more acute. Many of these old parish registers have been destroyed or mislaid, and where they do exist they are untrustworthy. Apart from this, in nearly every case it is not the date of birth but the date of baptism that is recorded. It seems probable, however, that the local committees and the pension officers will be content to accept what may be regarded as reasonable proof of age.

STARTED TO WALK TO IRELAND

From the New York World.

Mrs. Bessie Cline, her hair snow white and her manner very gentle, started out Thursday night to walk from Queens, Long Island, to Ireland. The many years her feet have trod this earth made her steps slow and hesitating. As the old woman followed along a track of the Long Island railroad, the searchlight of a locomotive drawing a train to Long Island City revealed her to the engineer. He was barely able to stop the train in time to avoid running down Mrs. Cline.

Kind hands lifted her weary form into the train, and she was taken to Long Island city in care of Policeman Bunte.

"Where do you live?" kindly inquired Magistrate Fitch, in the Long Island city police court, yesterday.

"In Ireland, sir," she replied. "I came over three weeks ago, sir, an' they're all good an' kind to me, but I left little Jimmy and Mary and my husband back in the old churchyard, and, sir, I want to go back home. Is it a long way? Sure, I can walk."

Bits of Sporting Gossip

LEADERS IN BOTH LEAGUES LOSERS

EXCITING FINISH IS PROMISED FANS.

New York Still Holds First Place in National League, but Detroit Drops to Second in American.

If anything had been needed to make of more absorbing interest to baseball enthusiasts the series to be begun today between the New York and Chicago National league teams on the polo grounds, yesterday's happenings on the baseball diamond supplied it. New York was again obliged to lower her colors to Pittsburg in a close game and as Chicago won both ends of a double-header in Philadelphia, the present leaders lost a great part of the advantage they had gained by their recent string of successive victories. This morning, the New York's have a lead of but 20 points over Chicago. Four games will probably be played by these two clubs in the present series, and by winning them all, Chicago would assume the lead in the National league race. An even break, or even the winning of one game out of 4, however, would still leave the present leaders in first position. In the meantime Pittsburg, seven points behind, will be playing in Brooklyn, and not inconceivably may gain substantially on one or both of the clubs now preceding it in the standing. The race in the senior organization is full of interest with the possibility of ultimate victory by any of the three leading teams. The standing of these teams, Monday's games included, is:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
New York	87	48	.644
Chicago	87	52	.624
Pittsburg	87	54	.617

Not less interesting and even closer is the race in the American league, which yesterday witnessed the displacement of Detroit from the leadership, assumed now by Cleveland by virtue of that club's victory over New York and Detroit's defeat by Boston. Only five points behind Detroit is Chicago, also a winner yesterday, with St. Louis keeping up the pace 13 points to the rear of Chicago and with only 20 points between the St. Louis men in fourth place, and with Lajoie's men in first place. The potentialities of this race are also great, even with the season thus near its close. The standing of the leading quartet this morning is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Cleveland	81	60	.574
Detroit	79	59	.572
Chicago	80	61	.567
St. Louis	77	62	.554

PITTSBURG DEFEATS NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The Pittsburg team made it two out of four from the New York club today. In a game in which both Mathewson and Willis pitched in superb form. Hits by Wilson, Gibson and Clarke gave Pittsburg two runs in the third inning. These three men were the only ones who got a base at all for Pittsburg. New York made their one run on a hit batsman, McCormick's double and an infield out. Eighteen New Yorkers and 15 Pittsburgers went out on fly balls. Score: R.H.E.

CLEVELAND IN FIRST PLACE

Defeats New York in Ragged Game, While Detroit Loses to Boston, Chicago and St. Louis Win.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 21.—Cleveland opened the New York series today with a 5-to-3 victory, going into first place. Both teams played ragged ball, New York making five errors and Cleveland 3. Berger did not pitch as good as usual, being hit safely in every inning but one. Outside of the fifth he was steady in pinches and New York had 11 men left on bases. Lake started out well for New York, but Cleveland bunched four hits and a sacrifice with Ball's error in the fourth and scored four runs. Warhop finished the game and blanked the locals. Birmingham, who batted in the winning runs, starred in the field.

After the game, the immense crowd swarmed upon the diamond and impatiently awaited the chalking up of the Detroit-Boston score.

END OF A UNIQUE CHARACTER

Man Who Enjoyed a Spectacular Career Dying in Cincinnati.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Death is ready to seize one of the most unique characters known to the citizens of Cincinnati for more than a third of a century, and those who saw William W. Thedford carried from the ambulance into the receiving ward of the city hospital yesterday afternoon saw but a shadow of his former self.

Dr. William W. Tedford, as he pleased to call himself, has been a gentleman of fortune all his life. If his assertion deserves credence, he was connected with the nobility of England, and at one time in his meteoric career was at the head of the Irish constabulary. Of that of which he was proudest, however, was his skill as a broad swordsman, and he claimed to be the champion of the world in this feat of arms. That he must have accomplished something in this line is evidenced by numerous medals he wore on state occasions, and which he treasured above all his earthly possessions. That he once attempted to try his skill with the broadsword in this city is remembered by the older residents. It was about 25 years ago that he issued a challenge, which was accepted by a man named Wolf, who had seen service in the English army.

The battle royal was fixed for a Sunday afternoon at the place now called Chester park. The sale of tickets was immense, especially as the battle was to be on horseback. When the bugle blew Tedford appeared on a charger that might have borne a Bayard in full armor, and his adversary was equally well mounted. The second bugle blast brought the combatants to the charge, but the horses were of a different mind, and turned tail. They never met.

Since then Tedford has led a precarious existence as a faker, phrenologist, and kindred occupations. During the late change in administrations some wag started to boom Tedford for chief of police, and so seriously did the old phrenologist take the joke that he was several times present at inspection at police headquarters. Only once again did he come into prominence, when he was reported to be engaged to be married to a woman with considerable means. The lady declared the engagement off, and Tedford sued her for $15,000 for his lacerated heart, but the suit was never heard.

ADVENTURE OF A CAT.

A curious adventure which befell a pet cat belonging to the Petersburg (Transvaal) postoffice is told in the Diamond Fields Advertiser. As the animal did not answer to the usual summons to breakfast, inquiries were made in the office. These showed that it had not been seen since the previous evening, when it was seen playing around the Johannesburg mail bags, then in course of preparation for dispatch down country. It occurred to one of the staff that by some mischance the cat might have been accidentally tied up and sealed along with postal matter, slung on to the contractor's wagon to the station and sent away south by the night train. A telegram was sent to the Johannesburg office, and a little later the following reply was ticked off: "Cat returning by 8:10 p. m. mail tonight." The cat subsequently arrived after its 210-mile return journey none the worse for the experience.

SAYS NAPOLEON WAS A HOBO.

Montclair Dispatch to New York Times.

"You're not a tramp; you can make a living as a campaign orator," said Sergeant McGarry of the Montclair police, as he dismissed the charge of vagrancy against John Huffledinger, who had been arrested by Policeman Mulligan. Sergeant McGarry's estimate of the prisoner's qualifications was reached after he had tried for 10 minutes to get in a question edgeways during a rapid-fire discourse by Huffledinger.

The prisoner, when informed that he had been arrested for vagrancy, began a discourse that took up the history of tramp life from away back in the Middle Ages. He was a scholarly talker, and he pointed to Napoleon as an illustrious predecessor of the modern hobo. Napoleon, Huffledinger declared, had tramped all over Europe, and was arrested only at Moscow and Waterloo. Huffledinger promised to get out of town when the sergeant discharged him.

EMPIRE WALKING COSTUMES ARE SMART AND PICTURESQUE.

Broadcloth and satin of matching hue are charmingly combined in the Empire coat and skirt afternoon costumes which the maiden who means to commit havoc with masculine hearts at fashionable resorts is bringing from Paris. These have clinging cloth skirts that lie on the ground at all sides, but are not exaggeratedly long. Some of them are absolutely plain, others simulate a tunic drapery and carry many fabric-covered buttons. The coats are usually of satin and of the modified Empire type, a trifle short-waisted, with sloping open fronts and cutaway or pleated backs. The full-length sleeves of moderate size are set plainly or with only a slight amount of fulness into an armhole of normal size. On all the new costumes of every type sashes are a feature.

SHORT SKIRT LEAGUE.

A woman's Short Skirt league has been formed in London. The members, according to Woman's Life, bind themselves to wear dresses which will not sweep the floors and pavements, and so gather up dust and microbes. This is not a new idea. In America there is a similar organization called the Five Inch league. Every member is pledged to at least five inches of clear space between skirt and floor.

BEANS AS BIG AS SPOONS.

Naugatuck Letter in Waterbury American.

Franklin Wedge of South Main street, has grown Lima beans of an unusually large size this season, and Saturday's picking was the best in the crop. There is no taking half a dozen of these beans in a mouthful of succotash, for one would fill an ordinary size teaspoon. The vines are well covered with pods and most of the beans are large, many not having reached their full growth. Some of the beans picked by Mr. Wedge on Saturday measured 1 1-4 inches in length and 1 1-16 in width and proportionately "fat." No special attention has been paid to this crop, and ordinary fertilizing matter was used. The only explanation for their unusual size is that they were planted in good soil at the right time and their culture has not been neglected.

DEBS IS A NATIONAL LEADER.

Has Given Up Good Positions to Life of Wandering Preacher.

From the American Review of Reviews.

Like all crusaders, Debs is misunderstood, maligned, and feared by those who do not know him; but if any one will go to Terre Haute, where Debs has lived his life, he will find few men who do not love him. Some believe his doctrines dangerous; others believe them impractical. Some say Debs is too good for this world. But no one doubts his sincerity, his unselfishness, his great gifts, or the purity and nobleness of his character.

Some very practical men cannot understand one who knows no compromise and never thinks of expediency. When Debs gave up politics to go into the trade-union movement, and then a well-paid position in the trade-union movement to go into a new organization that seemed doomed to failure, and even from that poor organization into an even poorer thing, the Socialist movement, the practical people of Terre Haute felt that Debs was a failure.

As a matter of fact, Debs was blundering about trying to find his metier. As an executive, as an organizer, or as a politician he was not exceptionally gifted. But as a speaker he has few, if any, equals. Not only his friends but Debs himself, realized this great power, and he became a wandering agitator who for ten years has gone up and down the land carrying the message of Socialism. He is known in every part of the country.

The other day over 20,000 people came to hear him in Oklahoma, and a day or so later in Milwaukee 25,000 stood in a blistering heat listening to his speech. Whatever the practical people of Terre Haute, who have never understood him, may think, the poets and the plain people understand Debs, and multitudes who will not vote for him agree heartily with James Whitcomb Riley and Eugene Field, who have so often given him their tributes in prose and verse. Preaching his "inspired evangel of fraternity," he has gone from good positions to nothing; from the promise of ease and quiet and comfort to the life of a wandering tramp preacher.

HEALTHY BODY GERM PROOF.

Always Equipped to Ward Off the Inroads of the Microbe.

From Success Magazine.

When you are in good health, and the world looks right, it is because the white corpuscles, well supplied with ammunition, are fighting your fight for you all over your body. It is when your opsonins are deficient and your soldiers are fighting a losing battle from head to foot, that the aches come and life seems flat and unprofitable. Your ills are only the after effects. To be logical, you should greet your friend with: "How are your opsonins?"

This, then, is the welcome message that recent discoveries have brought us from the field of battle, that germs are powerless to affect a healthy body in which the vital resistance is maintained by good habits of living. Alcohol, tobacco, and other such drugs, whether narcotic or stimulative in their effects, are aids and comforts to our invisible enemies. Too much food, especially heavy food such as meat and beans, forms supplies for the commissary department of the enemy, instead of for the brigades of white corpuscles.

On the other hand, every breath drawn deeply into the lungs of fresh, sun-warmed air is a direct blow struck at our foes and on the side of our defenders; every sip of pure water aids the forces of life. So, too, does every motion in walking, running and other exercises—when exercise is not excessive. Every mouthful of pure food adds fuel to the flame of life.

So, too, does every pure thought, that is to say, every cheerful, normal action of the brain, when uncontaminated by gloom, morbidity, or any of the poisons of pessimism. Thus you can aid your bodyguard to fight the attacks of the invisible army of germs by the adoption of a few simple principles, and the attainment of a little real, up-to-date knowledge on the subject of hygiene; and by combining can help each other in the war that must ever go on.

consideration and action by the next Republican national convention, I should not be so emphatic in my conclusion. It is not on my part a question of personal feeling with respect to Senator Foraker. It is really a question of political principle. In respect to this, the legislature of Ohio expressed what I believe to be the sentiment of the people of Ohio, in a resolution asking the senator to support the rate bill. Senator Foraker declined to follow this resolution. When the issue is whether he shall be returned, it must be determined, if this is to be a representative form of government, not by the question whether he has followed his conscience, but by the question whether he really represents the principles that his constituents desire supported and put into practice.

The issue really is whether the Republicans of Ohio therefore as the constituents of either a senator or a political candidate support the main policies maintained by the administration or the opposition to those policies. Representing the policies of the administration, I cannot stultify myself by acquiescence in any proposed compromise which necessarily involves the admission that the Republicans of Ohio regard this fundamental difference of opinion as of no importance and no one that can be waived in the interest of party harmony or the settlement of factional differences.

Believes in Roosevelt Policies.

There is not the slightest doubt that the next national convention of the Republican party will sustain in full the vital and main principles maintained by President Roosevelt and will express no sympathy with the opposition represented by Senator Foraker. Because I believe in these principles and because in my judgment the Republicans of the state and nation are overwhelmingly in favor of them, I cannot favor any action by members of the committee who do me the honor to support me and wish to aid me, which will have the appearance of acquiescence to the proposed compromise.

Very sincerely yours,

"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

I publish this letter without Mr. Taft's knowledge, because I feel it my duty to the public that his attitude should be known. The man who unhesitatingly resists temptation, who cannot be swerved by any consideration of personal interest from following the course which his lofty conception of duty dictates to him, the man whose whole concern is for the welfare of the people, and who has proved in a lifetime of difficult and useful public service his extraordinary capacity as an administrator, is surely the man of all others to be entrusted with the presidency. Mr. Taft's candidacy is not based upon large and vague promises, part of which would be impossible of achievement and part of which would be absolutely mischievous to the people of the whole country if put into effect. His candidacy is based upon his great record of actual achievement, his great record of service to the public upon his inflexible adherence to the highest standards of righteousness and upon his proved and absolute fearlessness in relentlessly warring against evil wherever it may be found. I appeal to all good citizens, to all high-minded, conscientious men who love their country for the sake of their country to put such a man at its head.

(Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Sagamore Hill, Oyster Bay, Sept 21, 1908.

Recalls Writing Letter.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 21.—Judge Taft read and reread the production of President Roosevelt, inspired by the Foraker-Hearst controversy. He recalled vividly writing the letter which the President quoted from, him, but after considering the question carefully, concluded to make no addition to the subject at this time.

Judge Taft did not indicate that he should hereafter make a statement.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 21.—Senator J. B. Foraker stated that owing to the lateness of the hour, he would not make any reply to the statement issued tonight by President Roosevelt, relative to the position Judge Taft had taken on the matter of the indorsement of Senator Foraker for re-election.

The senator said he would probably not read tonight the copy of the statement handed him by the representative of the Associated Press. The suggestion was made that he might wish his answer to appear in the editions of the newspapers of the country in which the President's statement would be published. Senator Foraker in reply said:

"I am not so fond of the President's company as that."

He further said that he might make a statement tomorrow if, after consideration, he deemed a reply necessary.

ADMIRAL THOMPSON HERE

Stops Off in Colorado Springs on Pleasure Trip Through West.

Colorado Springs is entertaining a rear admiral of the United States navy in the person of Rear Admiral Theodore Strong Thompson, who is a guest at the Antlers hotel. He is on a pleasure trip through the west.

Admiral Thompson was retired in 1903 after more than 40 years of continuous service for the United States. After receiving an education at Williams college, he served for nine months in the United States volunteers in the Civil war. He was appointed acting assistant paymaster in the United States navy October 9, 1863, and was honorably discharged August 31, 1865. He was appointed assistant paymaster in 1866, passed assistant paymaster in 1868, paymaster in 1878, pay inspector in 1898 and pay director in 1901. He was retired December 26, 1903 with the rank of rear admiral for services during the Civil war.

His home is in Brookline, Mass. He will leave Colorado Springs today.

BAILEY PLEASED WITH LETTER

Is Glad of Hearst Publicity, Since It Refutes Charges of His Enemies in State of Texas.

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 21.—When an Associated Press representative asked Senator Bailey today what reply, if any, he desired to make to what Mr. Hearst said regarding him in the Memphis speech Saturday night, Senator Bailey dictated the following:

"Assuming that the Sibley letter, which Mr. Hearst read, is genuine and that I am the 'Senator B.' to whom it refers, I am very glad that it has been given to the public, for it completely refutes a charge which my enemies have been making against me in this state for the last two years. They have been claiming that I am an agent of the Standard Oil company and insinuating that I have been friendly to it in matters of legislation.

"This letter distinctly shows that I am not their attorney and it also distinctly shows that my position could not be changed to suit the interest of the Standard Oil company. The letter, which is claimed to have been written by Mr. Sibley, suggests that he might arrange for Mr. Archbold to talk to me and the Mr. Archbold reply, as read by Mr. Hearst, says that he would like to talk to me. As a matter of fact, Mr. Sibley never made me the remotest suggestion of a conference with Mr. Archbold and I never spoke to Mr. Archbold in my life about matters pending in Congress or any other legislative body. Even my worst enemies can hardly insist that I had talked with Archbold, because the congressional record shows that I do not agree with the Standard Oil's view on any question, and to insist that I conferred with Mr. Archbold and that he was as powerless to alter my opinion as Mr. Sibley admits himself to have been, would not give much comfort to my enemies."

TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBITION

Opened in Connection With International Congress.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—What is practically a world's fair on tuberculosis was formally opened at the New National museum in this city tonight. The exhibition has been assembled in connection with the International Congress on tuberculosis. Addresses were made by Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Surgeon General George H. Sternburg and others.

The exhibition will remain over until October 12, during which time there will be demonstrations and talks to illustrate the methods by which the fight against tuberculosis is being fought in all parts of the world.

Practically every civilized nation is represented in the exhibition. On next Monday, September 28, the official opening of the congress proper will occur.

There were seated on the platform many scientists who have come here from every part of the globe. The auditorium, with a seating capacity of 3,500, was well filled.

HISGEN IN NEW ORLEANS

Declares Issue of Campaign Is Whether Trusts Shall Rule.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 2.—Thomas L. Hisgen, Independence party candidate for the presidency, spoke here tonight at the Athenaeum. He said that the issue of this campaign is whether the trusts shall rule the country. Mr. Hisgen said he favored good wages and reasonable hours for labor and that every employer knows the more he pays his employe the better is the work performed. He suggested that preference should be given married employes and that it would be proper policy every time there was an increase in an employe's family to give him an increase in wages. He said that he had tried this policy in his own business and that it worked exceedingly well.

Mentioning the statements of Mr. Hearst about Senator Foraker and Governor Haskell, Mr. Hisgen said that Mr. Taft had repudiated Senator Foraker and asked why Mr. Bryan should not repudiate Governor Haskell.

REVOLUTIONARY OUTBREAK

Portugal Faces Most Serious Situation.

LISBON, Sept. 21.—Insistent declarations that a revolutionary outbreak in Portugal is impending continue to make their appearance in the local newspapers and a new feature of these reports is the statement that the monarchial extremists, realizing that the Republicans are arming for a revolt, are making ready for their defense by storing secretly large quantities of arms in the convents of Lisbon, where the authorities dare not penetrate. The movement is said to be supported actively by the clerical party. One of the monarchical organs says that 17,000 persons have enlisted for the purpose of attacking and destroying the offices of the Republican newspapers and the Republicans declare that if this is done they will retaliate by starting a general riot and revolution.

NOTHING DOING THAT DAY

A southern lady came to Washington the other day on a visit. The congressman called at her hotel early one morning. As he was about to leave she asked him if there was to be anything interesting in the House that afternoon. "I'm afraid not," he said half apologetically. "You see I will be detained in a committee room most of the day."

sober-d. But I have not thought it necessary and all the leaders of the party with whom I have conferred, agreed with me that the month of active campaigning we have planned will be sufficient to get the Republican arguments squarely before the voters."

Henry Cochems of Milwaukee, who made the speech in the Chicago convention, nominating Senator Lafollette for the presidency, at Republican headquarters today, said:

"I expect Wisconsin to roll up an old time Republican majority. While the situation at this time is somewhat chaotic, everything will be all right by election day."

Indiana Uncertain

John P. Kealing of Indiana, who managed the campaign of Vice President Fairbanks, said:

"In Indiana, as a result of local issues, the situation at this time is a little uncertain. These issues will be fought out, and I have no doubt that Indiana will go for Taft and Sherman by a comfortable majority."

Representative James A. Tawney of Minnesota, chairman of the appropriations committee of the House, said:

"I am unable to account for the Democratic expectations of success in Minnesota. The state is rock-ribbed Republican and will give Taft 50,000 without a doubt. We will elect our gubernatorial candidate and send nine Republican members to the House of Representatives."

contract for laying more than one mile of sidewalk in various parts of town. F. A. Ragle submitted a bid of 3⅝ cents per square yard, but Smith was favored because Ragle, it is understood, represents Pueblo contractors.

On suggestion of Fertig, the street committee was requested to look after sidewalks on East Kiowa street, leading east toward the Deaf and Blind school.

Chairman Kasson of the police committee, to which was referred the alleged market nuisance, reported that he found no resolution or ordinance permitting commission men to use the entire sidewalk for displaying their produce, and that the matter will be further investigated.

G. B. Ritsch informed the Council that he wants to cancel bonds on two auctioneers' licenses. The aldermen instructed the city clerk to notify the licensees that the securities will be canceled on submission of new bonds.

Waiting for Frost.

Chairman C. T. Fertig of the water committee reported that action on the communication of the Citizens' committee regarding waste of water has been postponed pending the return of Alderman Frost, a member of the committee, who is out of the city, but who is expected back any day.

Chairman Holden of the finance committee announced that owing to the lack of funds in the various departments, no amount can be given beyond the $200 already subscribed toward the fund for the local exhibit at the International Tuberculosis congress. Colorado Springs physicians are preparing an elaborate exhibit to be shown at the convention in Washington, D. C., beginning September 21, and the Council sought to give them $500, if sufficient funds could be secured.

Want New Arc Light.

To the street committee was referred a petition from more than 50 residents of the Fifth ward, asking that an arc light be placed at the intersection of Wahsatch avenue and Costilla street.

J. Washkowitz of 335 West Costilla street was granted a junk dealer's license.

The Council referred to the street committee a communication from C. S. McClurg to the effect that his horse was injured and his wagon badly damaged by driving over a hole at the east end of the Huerfano street viaduct.

The Mayor's appointment of Fred Hahn as a member of the board of plumbing examiners was confirmed.

To the finance committee was referred the August report of the superintendent of the cemetery.

Council adjourned to next Tuesday night, September 29.

ing the financial system over to Wall Street, and finally poured a volley of denunciation into the Standard Oil company.

Whether or not following so closely on the heels of his conferences yesterday with Judge Parker and former Senator David B. Hill, the vigor of his speech was due to the conclusions reached is not known, but it was admitted on all sides today and tonight that at no time during the present campaign has Bryan been so aggressive. He made a dozen speeches to large and enthusiastic crowds along the line. Bands played, the people cheered and at Tonawanda there was an incessant din of locomotive and factory whistles. Speeches were made at Brockport, Holley, Albion, Medina, Middleport, Lockport, Niagara Falls, Sanborn, Suspension Bridge and several smaller places.

The references to Senators Platt and Depew were made at Medina, where he touched on the Democratic issue of "shall the people rule?"

"You have two Republican senators," he said, "from this state. One has represented an express company and the other the railroad companies, and both of them have acted together to betray the people."

The body-and-sleeves-in-one idea prevails in all classes of under and outer garments and often is seen at its best in waists.

terested in the success of the Democratic ticket this fall, for the reason that the Democratic party stands for correct business methods and is pledged to no measure that would be inimical to the business of the country. All such men, he said, ought to be interested in purging the business world of illegitimate business ventures. So-called business men, he said, engaged in business in violation of the law, whether under the guise of trusts or combination, and most of those who are the beneficiaries of special privileges are to be found on the other side. The Democratic party calls upon all men engaged in lawful business to separate themselves from those engaged in business in violation of the law.

He insisted that the moral tone of business would be improved and confidence speedily restored if good men in all lines of business would refuse to become partners in politics with men and combinations of men who had for years attempted to use the political parties for the furtherance of their own private interests.

In discussing the tariff he said that as a result of the Dingley tariff, monopolies had multiplied and practically controlled the price of everything the people need in their homes, and notwithstanding wages have increased during the past 10 years, increased cost of necessities is vastly greater. The workingman, he said, above all others is interested in the destruction of lawless monopolies. An important step toward ending monopoly rule will be a reduction of the tariff.

OLD-TIME PROPHECIES

The delver among old books often finds, says the Berlin Umschau, prophecies made by writers which, in their day, were nothing but romance. This can be so easily observed by reading the works of Jules Verne, and there are also books in which airships, the telephone, photography and the motor wagon have been spoken of generations before these were accomplished facts. A novel entitled "Der Kluge Mann," published by Voss & Co., Leipsic, 1795, by an author named Cramer, shows a Rontgen picture. The story tells of the Countess Abilinia, who gave her heart to the knight Gibello. The knightly lover was thoughtless enough, however, to kill his lady love's father, and her affection turned to hatred, and she vowed to kill him. In a dream she saw the man who had fascinated her, and she stood ready to kill him, when suddenly his form changed, and before her stood a grinning skeleton, saying, "I have already been punished." This scene is illustrated in the old book, and the picture is not unlike a Rontgen photograph, but when it was published no one probably would have believed that science within a comparatively short time would make it possible to produce this picture, which the author's imagination invented.

BRANDS STATEMENTS AS FALSE

Haskell Reiterates Previous Declaration Regarding Charges Made by W. R. Hearst.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 21—Charles N. Haskell, governor of Oklahoma, and treasurer of the Democratic national committee, passed through Kansas City en route from the east where he has been making speeches for the Democratic ticket to his home in Oklahoma.

Mr. Haskell was asked if the charges of Wm. R. Hearst that he was connected with the Standard Oil company would cause him to resign from the national committee. He said:

"Resign—positive nonsense. Why, I was vindicated of those charges in the state campaign last fall, when I licked the whole bunch.

"Now, I brand Hearst's statements as falsehoods. I said I would not resign a minute ago, did I not. Well, if Mr. Hearst can prove a single statement I'll quit at once."

As his train pulled out Mr. Haskell shouted, "And don't forget to say that the campaign fund is growing fine. I'm going home for a few days and then will go back to Chicago. Yes, I'm satisfied with the outlook."

FELLOWSERVANT LAW ILLEGAL

So Decides U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals—Opinion of Vast Importance to Colorado.

DENVER, Sept. 21—The United States circuit court of appeals today handed down an opinion which puts the finishing touches on the Colorado Fellowservant law of 1901. The decision says the bill was not legally passed and is of no effect in controversies between employer and employe in this state. It is an opinion of vast importance as there are hundreds of damage cases pending, involving personal injuries all over the state. These will now have to be dismissed unless the national employers liability law will apply to them, and railway men are the only ones able to avail themselves of this act.

The opinion was handed down in the case of William Duke against the Portland Gold Mining company, and is a reversal of the decision of Judge Lewis.

The decision upholds the old common law rule that the master is not liable for the injury of a servant when that injury is caused by the negligence of a fellowservant, which by all court rulings of recent years, renders it impossible for an employe to recover damages for injuries.

DEMOCRATS OF UTAH MEET

Conventions Will Be Held Today at Logan—Number of Lively Fights Expected.

LOGAN, Utah, Sept. 21—The Democratic state convention will meet here tomorrow to nominate a complete state ticket, a candidate for Congress and presidential electors. With the nomination of Jesse Knight of Provo, a prominent mining man, for governor almost a certainty, indications point to a number of lively fights for the remaining places on the ticket, as well as over the local option question, a plank providing for which will be presented before the committee on resolutions and vigorously fought for by a number of counties.

Just what the convention will do with the question of naming the Democratic choice for United States senator is also an open issue.

Two years ago the convention adopted a resolution favoring the naming of a choice at the next convention. It is contended by many delegates that this action was binding on the present convention, and if this view obtains, it seems probable that Samuel Newhouse will be declared the choice of the party, although the friends of Judge William H. King are by no means idle. Judge Orlando W. Powers will be temporary chairman and also the permanent presiding officer of the convention.

BUCHTEL WELCOMES I. O. O. F.

Executive Session Held at El Jebel Temple.

DENVER, Sept. 21.—The delegates to the annual session of the sovereign grand lodge were escorted this morning to the military organization of the order from the Brown Palace hotel to the auditorium, where an open meeting was held. On behalf of the state and city addresses of welcome were made by Gov. H. A. Buchtel, Mayor Robert W. Speer, Grand Master Joseph Newitt and other officers of the Colorado department of Odd Fellows. Grandsire E. S. Conway of Illinois responded for the order.

Following these preliminary exercises the sovereign grand lodge adjourned to El Jebel temple, where the executive sessions will be held.

"This is the strongest fraternal order on the continent," said Grandsire Conway today. "It has 1,800,000 members and has not stopped growing. It has forty-four homes for the aged and indigent and homes and schools for dependent children.

"The order has an annual income of $15,000,000, of which $6,000,000 is spent in relief and a similar sum for lodge expenses. This leaves a balance each year of $3,000,000, which is added to a reserve fund that now amounts to $50,000,000.

"There are 292 representatives to this convention, the larger states having four and the smaller ones from one to three."

John L. Nolan, deputy grandsire, who will succeed E. S. Conway as grandsire, is a citizen of Nashville, Tenn. He is 56 years old and has been a member of the order since he was 21. In 1888 he was elected grand master of Tennessee and two years later became a member of the sovereign lodge.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Sept. 21.—A light rain fell here today, the first in many weeks. Water is so scarce in sections of western Kentucky that it is stolen from those who have a supply and refuse to furnish it to outsiders.

WEST WILL NOW BE WORKED

Democrats Will Devote Time and Energy to States West of the Rockies.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is planning to force the fighting in the Pacific coast states, and during the month of October speakers of national prominence will be sent west to aid in swinging all debatable states into line of the Democrats. Mr. Mack said tonight that the reports received from California, Oregon, Montana and Colorado were of such character as to lead him to the belief that with a strong effort they would be captured for Bryan and Kern.

"I regard the middle west," said Mr. Mack tonight, "as safely Democratic and all our efforts will be to hold our advantage, which will be made easier by the rout of the Republicans. The national committee is receiving the most glowing reports from the Pacific coast and we will make added efforts to bring California, Oregon and other states into line. I am going west soon, and will likely meet the national committeemen of the Pacific states some time in October in the far west, though I may make a flying trip through all the debatable states."

WHITE HATS REIGN SUPREME FOR MIDSUMMER.

The wardrobe prepared for midsummer which does not include at least one all-white hat is so unusual as to be remarkable. Some of these are practically lingerie affairs, although the shapes themselves are of rice straw or chip, but so well covered that their material is scarcely a detail to be considered. Usually the flaring brims, boldly upturned at one side, are faced with the same material as the crown trimming. This is of Valenciennes or Cluny, fine net or allover fancy lace, edging finished and made into choux and ruffles, accordeon or knife pleated. Sometimes pleated frilling rosettes are in wheel form, as in the case of this model.

WOMAN'S NIGHTMARE

No woman can be happy without children; it is her nature to love them as much so as it is the beautiful and pure. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass is so full of dread that the thought fills her with apprehension. There is no necessity for the reproduction of life to be either very painful or dangerous. The use of Mother's Friend prepares the system for the coming event, and it is passed without any danger. This remedy is applied externally, and has carried thousands of women through the crisis with but little suffering.

THE "STAND BY THE PARTY" PLEA.

THE first announcement that an Independent Republican ticket is to be placed in the field in El Paso County comes from the Hamlin gang organ precisely the opinion that was to be expected. "Stand by the Strand Old Party," wails The Telegraph. "This is a Presidential year. Don't endanger Republican success in State and Nation by scratching your ticket. Taft and Mahoney and El Paso County stand by the Party and vote the ticket straight."

Of course, this is to be the plea from now until November 3. It is on this specious argument that the Hamlin gang base their hopes of victory. The test of party loyalty is to be applied to each voter, and whoever will not proclaim himself or her "faithful to Hamlin and the Hamlin ticket is to be accused of treason, either directly or by inference.

Republican voters who do their own thinking instead of permitting the Bradfield outfit to do it for them (and this class is decidedly in the majority just now) will not be misled by this frantic appeal to their loyalty. The time has passed in El Paso County and everywhere else when intelligent people could be duped into voting against their own interests simply because the ticket bore the name of a party to which they belonged. This has been proven in several notable instances in August last year. The people can and will vote for their party's candidate for President, but on local issues they can and will vote in a directly contrary manner.

This was shown in 1904 when Massachusetts gave W. L. Douglas, the Democratic candidate for Governor a plurality of 36,000 on the same day that it gave Roosevelt a plurality over Parker of 82,000. In the same year Minnesota elected Johnson, Democrat, Governor by 7,000, and gave Roosevelt a plurality of 161,000. In both of these cases the victory of the Democrats was won entirely on local issues, and when the people went to the polls they kept these issues entirely separate and distinct from the Presidential issue. Numerous cases might be cited showing how the same principle has been applied throughout the country in city elections, notably in Cleveland, which, though a strong Republican city, has four times elected a Democratic Mayor, Tom L. Johnson, solely on local issues. In every election Cleveland gives a big plurality to the Republican Presidential, State and Congressional tickets, but as consistently retains Johnson as Mayor.

KEEP THE ISSUES DISTINCT.

To appeal to the Republican voters of Colorado Springs to vote for the riffraff which Mr. Hamlin has gathered around him is to ask them to betray their own interests, and when this appeal is based on mere blind party loyalty it is an insult to their intelligence. Everybody knows that the issues involved in the El Paso County campaign are purely local—that it has no bearing whatever on the issues involved in the National and State campaigns. Republican voters may believe, as The Gazette does, that the election of Judge Taft to the Presidency is essential to the continued prosperity and welfare of the nation. They may believe, as we believe, that the interests of Colorado will best be advanced by the election of Mr. McIntosh and the Republican State ticket, and so believing they can and should vote the Republican National and State tickets. But, unless hopelessly blinded by prejudice or by ignorance of the true situation, they can not believe that the interests of El Paso County—which is their own interests—would be furthered by the election of Hindsdale, Schreiber, Schisler, Little, and some of the other men named on the Hamlin tickets. This being the case, it becomes a matter of public necessity to defeat these candidates.

Colorado Springs is suffering now from the effects of its lack of independence in politics. The people have been voting for every Tom, Dick and Harry who bore the party label, so long that misgovernment was inevitable. The label is not always a guarantee of the goods inside, and it is high time to pay less attention to the brand and more to the article itself.

ROOSEVELT'S PART IN THE CAMPAIGN.

To elect Mr. Taft, and at the same time to elect a Congress pledged to support him, is the only way in which to perpetuate the policy of the Government as now carried on. I feel that all the aid that can be given to this policy by every good citizen should be given, for this is far more than a merely partisan matter.

So says Mr. Roosevelt in his letter to Representative McKinley, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee. For the last seven years the Roosevelt policies have been the most absorbing topic of political discussion in this country. That they have been approved by an overwhelming majority of the people without regard to party is not a question that admits of argument. The "doctrine of the square deal," as it has come to be called, has received the indorsement of Republicans and Democrats alike. The President's attitude towards the railroads and other great corporations has been so generally indorsed that the Democrats are claiming it as their own, and are trying to take credit for it. One by one, Mr. Bryan has appropriated the Roosevelt policies, blissfully ignoring the fact that they are chiefly at variance with his own pet schemes of government ownership, etc., and he likes them so well that now he claims to be the heir apparent, or logical successor, to the Roosevelt mantle—a claim which was effectually refuted by the President in his recent letter to Mr. Conrad Kohrs.

THE REAL ISSUE OF CAMPAIGN.

When we get down to essentials it is plain that the real issue, or, in Bryanite phrase, the paramount issue, is whether or not the Roosevelt policies shall be continued and carried to their logical conclusion. It is perfectly safe to assume that an overwhelming majority of the people do not want a change; they want National affairs to be administered in the next four years just as they are being administered now. The minority who do want a change are mostly the people who sympathize with corporations which claim to have been "persecuted" by Mr. Roosevelt, and these people can expect absolutely no comfort from a change from Roosevelt to Bryan. The Democratic candidate is an extremist; he does not believe in temperate regulation and supervision, but in the adoption of such stringent laws as would paralyze the industries of the whole country while trying to reach a few offenders. Instead of carrying forward the Roosevelt policies he would subvert them.

On the other hand Judge Taft is a consistent upholder of these policies; in Mr. Roosevelt's words, "they are as much his as mine." He has exerted no little influence in originating and shaping them, and if elected to the Presidency he could not disregard them without repudiating his own past actions. He could and doubtless would carry them out in a spirit somewhat different from that of Mr. Roosevelt, for he is a man of different temperament. Both are intensely in earnest in their belief in the importance of these policies, but Judge Taft is calm and judicial while Roosevelt is fully impulsive.

The President's letters to Mr. Kohrs and Congressman McKinley show that he does not intend to remain passive in this campaign. Nobody supposed that he would. He can with perfect propriety exert his influence in this manner in the cause which he, in common with the entire Republican party, believes to be essential to the country's welfare, and he well says, "This is far more than a merely partisan matter," just as all questions of good government have a significance broader than partisanship. The Roosevelt Administration has given a wonderful impetus to the cause of clean government and political morality, and the whole people, irrespective of party, are concerned in carrying forward the work that has been under way for the last seven years.

PROS AND CONS OF BRYANISM

From the Haverhill Gazette.

Some of the Democratic newspapers are supporting Bryan with a pen in one hand and a club in the other.

ANYTHING BUT A JOKE.

From the Hartford Courant.

This Hearst and Graves ticket will make a difference in New York and Illinois—yes, and perhaps in California, too. It is anything but a joke to Mr. Bryan.

THE ROOSEVELT POLICIES.

From the Sherman's Speech of Acceptance.

Our platform, as it should do, pledges adherence to the policies of President Roosevelt, promises to continue the work inaugurated during his administration, to insure to persons and property every proper safeguard and all necessary strengthening of administrative methods, will be provided to furnish efficient inspection and supervision, and prompt righting of every injustice, discrimination and wrong.

TAFT, THE STRAIGHTFORWARD.

From the Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Mr. Taft is not the type of statesman to permit the least shadow of uncertainty as to his views upon any of the principles and policies claiming the attention of the political parties. He is proverbially plain-spoken, putting his beliefs bluntly before the people in readiness to stand or fall by them and thus insuring that his good faith, at all events, can not be questioned. Mr. Taft believes in telling the truth to the people whether it pleases or hurts. He took this course with the Filipinos, and he can be relied upon to take it also with his fellow-countrymen, leaving no doubt as to what may be expected of him if elected to the presidency.

JUST AS IT WAS IN 1896 AND 1900.

From the New York Sun.

It is no different Bryan who is running for President this year. As the days pass it becomes increasingly clear that the intelligence of the country will have to contend in 1908 against essentially the same desperate appeals to cupidity and ignorance and thriftlessness as were made in 1896 and again in 1900.

A Bryan campaign without quacks would be welcome, but it would be inconceivable. The quack feature of the Nebraskan's canvass this year is going to be his antipanic specific of a government guarantee of bank deposits. Two years ago it looked as though it would be government ownership, but it was sure to be government something or other. All the ideas which Bryan has championed resolve themselves into the one idea which is the core of Socialism, that only by government shall mankind be saved from itself. Guaranteeing bank deposits is only the open form which it takes for the present occasion. The real danger lurks in the background of insincerity.

"One of the amazing facts about Bryan's candidacy is that it is based on grounds which Bryan himself disputes. The Denver platform has a railroad plank which promises new excesses of regulation. Bryan does not believe in railroad regulation; he believes in government ownership of railroads. He has said, many times, that railroad regulation is bound to fail and that nothing but government ownership can solve the so-called railroad problem. The Denver platform also abounds in planks promising vigorous regulation of industrial corporations, but it follows like night after day and Mr. Bryan no more believes in regulating such concerns than he believes in railroad regulation. His whole course, his whole creed so far as it has been expounded, is evidence of a belief, albeit not yet confessed to himself perhaps, in the ultimate necessity of government ownership of industrial corporations as well as of railroads. The people, Mr. Bryan has said, believe in regulation. Therefore, I am willing to help all I can in helping them to experiment with regulation.

"It is very kind of Mr. Bryan to be so willing to pander to the people, but when they understand him as thoroughly as they should now, what can the people think of him? Certainly if they believe in a policy of regulation they must think, they can not think anything else, that the last man to whom to intrust the carrying out of that policy is a man who disbelieves in it thoroughly, except as it may be a half-way house to the government ownership which he believes implicitly, but in which the people do not believe at all."

A WOMAN IN A DILEMMA.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

A letter in Sunday's issue of The Gazette under the heading "Woman, Where Art Thou?" asks the question "Why is it that some of our brightest women are losing interest in politics and are praying for the time to soon come when women's suffrage shall be taken from her?"

If that is meant for a statement of fact, I protest. On the contrary, some of the most hopeful signs of the dawn of a better day is the interest that intelligent womanly women everywhere are giving to the study of the science of government in all its branches, from the little child in the home, through precinct, city, state and nation, to international relations. So much so that many are coming to believe that Tennyson was prophetic in his vision of a time to be—

"When the war drums throb no longer,
And the battle flag is furled
In the parliament of man,
The federation of the world."

I also protest against the inference that in politics or anywhere else there are different moral standards for men and women.

I don't think I am hard-hearted, but for the life of me I cannot pity the poor politician mentioned in the letter who, through fear of being beaten by the other fellow, is obliged to engage the services of unprincipled women in his campaign.

George Eliot was right, when she made dear old Mrs. Poyser say—"I am not denying that women are foolish; the Lord Almighty made 'em to match the men."

It doesn't seem to occur to the writer that in case of a moral and mental examination, as she suggests, the giver along with the taker of bribe would be found wanting.

And really, Mr. Editor, after having been classed and labeled as one of the weaker sex and after being exhorted to look myself in on election day for fear of being "lured" by smiles of some kind, (I have no idea what they are like), to sell my vote for an automobile ride to the polls, I don't think it is fair to be expected to help pull this politician out of the mire clay.

In all reason I cannot lead him, gently or otherwise, in the way he should go if I am not traveling in that way myself. And, Mr. Editor, in order to take the first steps in that way I am bound to try to widen my outlook sufficiently to see things as they are—to some extent at least—or how shall I know how to distinguish between the candidate for office who honestly intends to perform the duties of that office if elected, and the politician with the indescribable smile? Between the woman who has moral convictions all mixed up with political convictions and the other woman who takes the highest pay?

Truly it is a dilemma.

proportion if the crusade is to be effected. The Maryland Tuberculosis commission, for instance, reminds us that ordinances against spitting on street cars and in public places do not reach the largest sources of infection. They declare that only about three per cent of all tuberculosis patients contract the disease in street cars and public places, and that about 35 per cent contract it in homes and other places where there is a prolonged exposure to the infection.

Catches Health Off Guard.

If you allow a baseball player to wield the bat long enough, no matter how good a pitcher there is pitted against him, he is going to make a hit. So it is with the germ. He may not get you the first time he enters your body, or the thousandth time, either. But if he keeps coming long enough he is almost sure to catch your health off its guard sooner or later. Though billions of them may have to die in order to finally lay you low, they never count the cost.

Tuberculosis germs cannot withstand pure air and sunlight, even as the disease which they cause cannot withstand the light of science. So they find their lurking places in dark rooms and ill-ventilated corners. It is said that there are 280,000 rooms in the city of New York where these germs can live and remain dangerous for long periods, whereas they come to an instantly end in a few hours of sunshine. It is the lack of physical, moral and mental sunshine that is responsible for most of the tuberculosis in the cities of the country, as it finds its favorite propagating grounds in the overcrowded tenement, the poverty-stricken hovel, and the foul alley shack. It is this that has led philanthropic men to erect model tenements and workingmen's houses. And it is this that goes largely toward making the death rate among the negroes so much higher than that among the whites.

Negro Death Rate Large.

The negro mortality from tuberculosis in the United States is about 150 per cent greater than that of the white people. In Washington the white mortality is 158.9, and that of the negro 463.3. In New Orleans the death rate of the whites from tuberculosis is 197.7 and that of the blacks 502.8. In Baltimore the white death rate is 190.8 and that of the negro 457.3. These figures are per hundred thousand of population. They are fairly representative. Part of the increased mortality among the negroes comes from predisposition, growing out of miscegenation, but it is largely due to insanitary living conditions. It is said that in slavery times consumption among pure blooded negroes was next to unknown.

South Dakota shows the lowest death rate of any state in the Union, there being only 83 to the hundred thousand of population. Michigan comes next with a rate of only 90. Australia shows a death rate of only 83, while Austria leads the world with 336. The rate for the United States is 169, that of England is 135, and of Japan 141. Even Jamaica, with its 800,000 negro population and only 15,000 whites, shows a rate of only 158. If the New Orleans rate for negroes were to obtain in Jamaica there would be over four thousand deaths a month from consumption there.

The whole philosophy of the crusade against tuberculosis may be summed up in the one sentence of the circular issued by the Committee on the Prevention of Consumption of the United Garment Workers of America, in conjunction with the Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis of the Charity Organization society of New York city. That is:

"Don't give consumption to others, don't let others give it to you."

Co-operation Necessary.

The doctor may be able to cure people after they have contracted the disease, but if the crusade is ever to amount to anything it must be through the co-operation of every person afflicted with tuberculosis and of everyone who is free from it. The eradication of the disease depends upon a campaign of education reaching both the sick and the well. The doctors are now able to announce that it is the most curable of all chronic diseases, and that it is not hereditary.

Every charity organization in the country stands ready to advise the consumptive. The day for ignorance is past. Advanced thought has advocated the registration of consumptives. Some thinkers have even suggested that those who will be persistently careless ought to be dealt with by the mailed hand of the law. They point out that the state takes charge of the feeble-minded, especially the criminally insane, and declare that careless consumptives may inflict disease and death on dozens where the insane person injures a single victim. Therefore, they advocate legal restraints against the careless tuberculosis patient. Some have suggested advertisements in every newspaper and periodical of the country, and others the mailing of literature into every home. Some would like to see the sanitary department authorized by law to send the literature of the crusade into every home. It is believed that nine-tenths of the consumptives were they cognizant of the danger to which they are exposing others, would be careful. In this lies the hope of the crusaders.

W. A. Conant of 405 Mesa road, who has been a resident of Colorado Springs for 35 years and who will be 92 years old November 9, will have voted at 18 presidential elections with the casting of his ballot for Taft on November 3.

"No, I didn't always vote for a Republican for President," said Mr. Conant yesterday, when asked regarding his politics, "but that was because I started voting before the inception of the Republican party. I voted the Whig ticket until 1857 when the Republican party born the preceding year nominated Fremont the Pathfinder for President. I was a delegate to the first Republican convention of the United States which in 1856 organized the party of that name and was also a member of the Republican convention which nominated Lincoln for President in Philadelphia in 1860."

Mr. Conant was a member of the New York legislature more than 50 years ago but despite his keen interest in politics has always refused to become a candidate for any office since.

AUTOMOBILE CASE IS UP

Atkinson-Ward Controversy May Be Settled Today

The long pending controversy between Mrs. [illegible] Atkinson and A. Jie Ward over the possession of a Columbus electric automobile valued at $1,700 was aired in the county court before Judge Robert Kerr yesterday and will probably be concluded today.

Mrs. Atkinson originally purchased the machine from W. D. Marlow and later left town, giving the machine into Marlow's care. Marlow later sold the car to Ward. Mrs. Atkinson alleges that Marlow had the property merely as care taker and that it is her automobile. Ward claims that Mrs. Atkinson was dissatisfied with the auto and gave it back with the understanding that she was to get a new one.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON AND YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

PATRIOTISM AND PRESENT PROBLEMS.

The International Sunday School Lesson for September 27 is a Temperance Lesson. Isaiah 5:11-23.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

"Every civilized community develops, sooner or later, its land question and its liquor question," says George Adam Smith. Developing this point, he continues: "It is with remarkable persistence that in every civilization the two passions of the human heart, love of wealth and love of pleasure, the instinct to gather and the instinct to squander, have sought precisely these two forms denounced by Isaiah in which to work their social havoc—appropriation of the soil and indulgence in strong drink."

As if he were writing a commentary upon the acutest present political question of the day, instead of a volume a number of years old, this same keen-sighted Scot says further, in treatment of the passage which is this week's Sunday school lesson: "With fatal persistence, the luxury of every civilization has taken to drink, and of all the indictments brought by moralists against nations, that which they deserve for drunkenness is, as here, the most heavily weighted. The crusade against drink is not the novel thing that many imagine who observe only its late revival among ourselves. In ancient times there was scarcely a state in which prohibitive legislation of the most stringent kind was not attempted, and generally carried out with a thoroughness more possible under despots than where, as with us, the slow consent of public opinion is necessary. A horror of strong drink has in every age possessed those who from their positions as magistrates or prophets have been able to follow for any distance the drifts of social life. Isaiah exposes as powerfully as ever any of them did in what the peculiar fatality of drinking lies. Wine is a mocker by nothing more than by the moral incredulity which it produces, enabling men to hide from themselves the spiritual and material effects of overindulgence in it."

What Ails Our Time?

Every reader of the day's news, be he ever so slightly concerned in moral questions, is aware that the present problems of civilization are fundamentally moral; and that twentieth century patriotism is finding its expression in a consideration of issues which affect the character of mankind. Whether he hears it from the walls of the liquor dealers who have suddenly awakened to the material loss in their revenues, or whether he gets it as gossip of the street, shop, office or corner store, the average man of today is well aware that in the United States and Canada the temperance question has come to be a burning public issue. To those who have not seen the constructive forces at work for the past generation, the sudden turning of states and communities toward a stern expulsion of the traffic in strong drinks is amazing and almost incredible. The "man of the street" is reading the various articles which are appearing on all sides, to convince himself that this great temperance upheaval is actually true, and not the fanciful dream of cold-water enthusiasts.

The person of wider outlook knows that the allied liquor and drug questions are today to an unwonted degree disturbing all the nations of earth. Great Britain is in the throes of a temperance reform agitation as burning as anything known on this side of the water. Parliament is considering a reduction by one-third of the 90,000 licensed places where liquor is sold in the kingdom. As a sample of the earnestness with which the churches have entered into that fight may be cited the monster demonstration held in June, in the city of Manchester, England. A procession was organized for one Saturday afternoon, to march to Heaton park, where speeches were made from 25 platforms. The line of parade was three miles; so numerous were the marchers that although the procession began at 15 minutes to 3 o'clock it had not ended when the meetings in the park broke up at 6 o'clock. A conservative American editor reports that there were at least 50,000 persons in line for this demonstration, and that not less than 250,000 heard the addresses from the 25 platforms.

A World-Wide Awakening.

In North America, in Great Britain and in France, the question to the fore is one of spirituous liquors. To a degree, in these same lands the agitation against drugs is an allied reform movement. In the greatest of oriental countries, China, with its 400,000,000, the opium question, after having been persistently pressed upon public attention by a few faithful missionaries who would not be daunted by the seeming hopelessness of their task, has suddenly become the gravest single issue in the empire, and at the same time a subject of international discussion and concern.

Although Mohammedanism forbids the drinking of wine, intemperance has been a vital subject in Turkey, Egypt and India. In short, the matter of restraining or abolishing the sale of intoxicating liquor may fairly be said to be a world question. That it is being almost universally discussed is a matter for congratulation. It augurs well for the future of nations that their citizens are debating with increasing intelligence what is fundamentally a moral problem.

Old Isaiah pressed the sin of intemperance home upon the Jews in their threatened decadence. This chapter which is the assigned portion for the week's Sunday school lesson, is rightly called by the same commentator already quoted "A noble piece of patriotism—one of the noblest of a race who, although for the greater part of their history without a fatherland, have contributed more brilliantly than perhaps any other to the literature of patriotism."

In the Wake of Prosperity.

In its pioneer stages, a nation is immediately concerned with questions of territorial rights and of national defense. The more material side of national life, the construction of cities, the establishment of government, and the promotion of commerce, engage attention. Once it has achieved settled existence, however, and especially if it win prosperity, the nation finds itself seriously face to face with big national problems. Here is a call for patriots. George Adam Smith says, "A period like our own, for instance, of political security and fashionable religious, what need is there in patriotic displays of any other kind? But how much for patriotism of this kind—of men who will uncover the secret sins, however loathsome, and declare the hypocrisies, however powerful, of the social life of the people! These are the patriots we need in times of peace, and as it is more difficult to rouse a torpid people to their sins than to lead a roused one against their enemies, and harder to face a whole people with the support only of conscience than to defy many nations if you but have your own at your back, so these patriots of peace are more to be honored than those of war."

The subject is crystalized by the same writer in the broad query, never more insistent than today. Does a nation "produce those fruits of righteousness for which alone God cares to set apart and cultivate the peoples? On this depends the question whether the civilization is secure, as well as the right of the people to enjoy and feel proud of it. There cannot be true patriotism without sensitiveness to this, for however rich be the elements that compose the patriot's temper, as piety towards the past, ardor of service for the present, love of liberty, delight in natural beauty and gratitude for Divine favor, so rich a temper will grow rancid without the salt of conscience; and the richer the temper is, the greater must be the proportion of the salt. All prophets and poets of patriotism have been moralists and satirists as well."

THE CITY AS A MENACE.

Terse Comments on the Uniform Prayer Meeting Topic of the Young People's Societies—Christian Endeavor, Baptist Young People's Union, Epworth League, etc.—for September 27, "Home Missions. The Cry of the City." Gen. 18:16-33.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

The problem of the twentieth century seems to be focused in the city. There all the forces that hurt and the forces that help are converging. It has often been said that God's first plan for mankind was a garden, but that a murderer founded the first city. The sins of human nature seem to flourish and thrive amid the crowded streets of the city; and all the vexatious social, moral, economic and political questions of our time reach an acute stage there. There is no denying that the cry of the city rises to every patriot who would spend his life in the largest service of his time.

The idea that the city is the strategic home mission field is common; yet nine out of 10 Christians think only of the poverty-smitten, alien-filled, depressed portion of the city as constituting a missionary problem. Whereas the truth is that the institutions of our fathers and of our faith are menaced from the top of our social system as well as from the bottom. A materialistic, pleasure-worshipping, Sabbathless society is as grave a danger as overflowing tenements. The great preacher and editor and publicist may be as truly city missionaries as the rescue mission worker or the district visitor.

I said, "Let me walk in the fields."
He said, "No, walk in the town."
I said, "There are no flowers there."
He said, "No flowers, but a crown."

I said, "But the skies are black;
There is nothing but noise and din."
And He wept as He sent me back;
"There is more," He said, "there is sin."

I said, "But the air is thick
And fogs are veiling the sun."
He answered, "Yet hearts are sick,
And souls in the dark undone."

I said, "I shall miss the light,
And friends will miss me, they say."
He answered, "Choose tonight
If I am to miss you, or they."

I pleaded for time to be given,
He said, "Is it hard to decide?
It will not seem hard in Heaven
To have followed the steps of your Guide."
—George Macdonald.

I look upon the size of certain American cities, and especially upon the nature of their population, as a real danger which threatens the security of the democratic republics of the new world. —De Tocqueville.

"Within recent years," says Charles Stelze, "40 Protestant churches moved out of the district below Twentieth street, in New York city, while 300,000 people moved in. This is simply typical of practically every city in the country. Alarmed for her safety, and for her very life, the church has sounded the dismal retreat, in the face of the greatest opportunity which has ever come to her in the cause of home missions and patriotism."

The association of the blessed life with a city, the one place in the world from which Heaven seems most far away—is something wholly new in religious thought. No other religion which has a heaven ever had a heaven like this. The Greek, if he looked forward at all, awaited the Elysian fields, the eastern sought Nirvana. All other heavens have been gardens, dreamlands—passivities, more or less aimless. Even to the majority among ourselves heaven is a siesta and not a city. It remained for John to go straight to the other extreme and select the citadel of the world's fever, the ganglion of its unrest, the heart and focus of its most strenuous toil, as the framework for his ideal of the blessed life. The heaven of Christianity is different from all other heavens, because the religion of Christianity is different from all other religions. Christianity is the religion of cities. It moves among real things. Its sphere is the street, the market place, the working life of the world.—Drummond.

More than one-half of our population will soon be urban, and in due time we shall be a nation of cities. If the rate of the movement of population from country to city, between 1880 and 1890, continues until 1920, there will then be in the United States 10,000,000 more people in our cities than outside of them. If the rate of growth above referred to is not sustained, it will make a difference of a few years only, as the preponderance of our city population in the near future must be regarded as certain. The cities will then no longer accept limitations from the state, but, when they have become fully conscious of their power, will take into their hands not only their own affairs, but also those of the state and of the nation. What if the cities are then incapable of self-government? If their government is then a conspicuous failure, what will become of our free institutions?—Josiah Strong.

Without human life for act, more without the relations of men with one another, of master with servant, husband with wife, buyer with seller, creditor with debtor, there is no such thing as Christianity. With actual things, with humanity in its every-day dress, with the traffic of the streets, with gates and houses, with work and wages, with sin and poverty, with these things, and all the things and all the relations and all the people of the city, Christianity has to do, and has more to do than anything else.—Drummond.

He who makes the city makes the world. After all, though men make cities, it is cities which make men. Whether our national life is great or mean, whether our social virtues are mature or stunted, whether our sons are moral or vicious, whether religion is possible or impossible, depends upon the city. When Christianity shall take upon itself in full responsibility the burden and care of cities the Kingdom of God will openly come on earth.—Drummond.

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS

Man has too many enemies than that he can afford to be his own foe.—Emerson.

There are but three steps from earth to heaven, or, if you will, from earth to hell—acts, habits, character.—Butler.

I ask not that for me the plan
Of good and ill be set aside,
But that the common lot of man
Be nobly born and glorified.
—Phoebe Cary.

The measure of a man's real character is what he would do if he knew it would never be found out.—Anon.

The theory of work is to put a great deal of one's self into the thing which one undertakes, whatever it may be.—W. J. Tucker, D.D.

"Remember, youth once gone is gone; Deeds let escape are never to be done."
—Browning.

Never, I think, since the close of the Civil war has there been among the best citizens of the United States so active a public spirit, so warm and persuasive a desire to make progress in removing all such evils as legislation can touch; never were the best men, both in your legislatures and in the highest executive posts, more sure of sympathy and support in their labors for the common weal.—James Bryce.

NEWS AND NOTES.

Dr. W. A. P. Martin of Peking, the veteran missionary and author, recently passed his eightieth birthday, on which occasion he was presented with a testimonial address, signed by many American friends.

There has recently been discovered in Samaria a complete Hebrew text of the Samaritan Book of Joshua, and a transcript of it is in process of publication by the German-Oriental society of Berlin. The book, which cannot be less than 2,000 years old, and possibly 2,300 years, is considered a great find. It forms the basis of much that appears in the works of Josephus. Up to the thirteenth chapter, the book is essentially the same as the canonical text in the present Bible.

The Unitarian denomination has appointed a secretary of publicity. One phase of his work is the dissemination of Unitarian doctrines through advertising space in daily newspapers, which is called the "Paragraph Pulpit." Thirty-two daily papers and twenty-one weeklies already publish the "Paragraph Pulpit," which is written by leading Unitarian divines. Especial attention is paid to papers appearing at great university centers.

Baptists and Free Baptists are getting together, and there is a possibility that the two denominations may be formally merged next year.

Massachusetts Congregationalists, through their Home Missionary society, have resolved that home missionaries in country parishes should be paid a minimum salary of $800 a year, and in cities $1,000. Bishop Lawrence of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts has recommended that single clergymen should have not less than $1,000 a year, and married men not less than $1,200. This is part of a general movement tending to the increase of salaries of preachers everywhere.

In connection with the present temperance agitation in Great Britain, it is reported that 940 ministers of the Church of England are shareholders in brewery companies. In the Church of Scotland 16 ministers hold such stock.

A well-known Presbyterian preacher, Rev. Dr. David Gregg, who was pastor of the famous Park Street Congregational church in Boston, later of Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian church in Brooklyn, and latterly president of Allegheny Theological seminary, was disinherited in youth by his father for leaving the Scotch Covenanter church. Recently, by the death of his mother, Dr. Gregg has received a fortune of $750,000.

While exploring London saloons for missionary purposes, Rev. Thomas Phillips, a Baptist preacher of that city, says the Congregationalist, came on a besotted derelict who called him by name, and asked if Mr. Phillips did not remember him. Then the minister recognized the miserable drunkard as his former Sunday school teacher.

One of the first fruits of the recent organization of "A Home Missions council," wherein the home boards of the different denominations got together, is an agreement that immigrants entering this country ought not to be confused by the rival claims of various denominations, but that each foreign-speaking settlement should be assigned to some one denomination for work.

The only clergyman who signed the Declaration of Independence, John Witherspoon, is to have a monument erected to him in Washington. Congress has provided the site, and the statue will be purchased by public subscription.

A Jubilee conference will be held in Japan in 1909 to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of Christian missions in that country.

MANY EMPTY HOUSES

Fifty Thousand of Them at Present in the City of London.

From the London Tit-Bits.

Fifty thousand empty houses in London. Mr. John Burns made this startling announcement in the house of commons recently. Large as this number is, there are those who believe it is under rather than over the mark. A remarkable change has taken place during the past five or six years. Whereas formerly landlords were masters of the situation, tenants have now the whip hand in nearly every district, and are offered all manner of inducements to take houses.

It is not long since that a premium—or what amounts to the same thing, "key money"—was demanded by property owners in some parts of London. Today numbers of such men will actually allow tenants a discount, which consists in the case of small property of the expenses of removal up to £1, or else of so many weeks' occupation free. Usually no rent is required for the first fortnight; but in certain localities the competition between property owners is so keen that the period in some cases is one month, making the discounts about £2 2s. or so.

A more curious bait is free insurance. One company gratuitously insures each of its tenants against fire; while another, besides safeguarding the householder against this contingency, relieves him of apprehension respecting any damage to his furniture by lightning or flood.

Certain separate charges have also been swept away, particularly in the case of flats, which, it is said, are now a drug in the market. Some landlords, for instance, made one for the cleaning of the common staircase, this, with the "extra" for gas, amounting to about 1s. 6d. per week. The eighteenpence was really rent, and the reason it was not called such was partly to evade payment of rates. When this is an actual case, a man owned about 50 flats, and lowered their rent as fifteen pence per week each less than it really was, his assessment was considerably lower than it ought to have been, and consequently he did not pay his due proportion of rates. But of late "extras" have frequently been cut off without any addition being made to the amount formerly set down as "rent."

IN CELLAR WITH HER DOGS

Chicago Dispatch to New York Times.

Down in the lower regions of the Auditorium hotel, where steam pipes hiss and elevator cables rumble, Mrs. W. E. Godfrey, wife of W. E. Godfrey of New York, sat most of the day. Mr. Godfrey is general manager of the Manufacturers' Trade Mark association of New York. She entered the gloom of the porters' room to be near her four dogs.

She arrived at the hotel last night with her dogs. Her baggage included dog trunks containing dog clothes and dog biscuits.

When Mrs. Godfrey asked one of the clerks to see to it that the dogs' trunks were sent up to her apartment, he first learned the existence of the dogs. He ordered them sent to the baggage room.

Then down went the dogs to the regions beneath, and down went Mrs. Godfrey with them.

"If they must stay, I shall, too," she said, as she fondled the little terriers.

Mrs. Godfrey took her pets for a walk in Grant park later in the day.

"Most dogs are less troublesome than some children," she said.

"LITTLE JOHNNY JONES."

Almost directly from a tour that has included the Pacific coast, there will come to the Opera House next Monday Geo. M. Cohan's tremendously successful musical comedy "Little Johnny Jones." This announcement will be sufficient to send hundreds of theater-goers to the Opera House for of a surety no musical play presented in this city in the past decade has made a better impression than "Little Johnny Jones" all over the country.

Young Mr. Cohan may write—in fact, has written, several other successes, but it is "Little Johnny Jones" which playgoers will ever remember him for, not so much because of its big success, but because this musical play contains so many elements that tend to attract amusement seekers.

Apart from a coherent story and a well sustained plot, with two very pretty love stories running throughout its three acts, "Johnny Jones" contains enough song numbers to stock a half dozen plays of its kind, and they are all of that peculiarly fascinating kind that only Geo. M. Cohan knows how to write. In "Little Johnny Jones" there are no less than twenty songs of this character.

The company which will interpret "Little Johnny Jones" here is practically the same as have presented it since its inception. A large and well drilled chorus, who are not only fascinating to the eye but who can sing, and ... very elaborate scenic and costume embellishments is the promise held out by the management for the presentation of Mr. Cohan's musical play.

"THE HEBREW FUGITIVE" AT FAIRYLAND.

The feature film for this afternoon and evening at Fairyland is "The Hebrew Fugitive"—over 1000 feet of the most interesting pictures that have been shown in Colorado Springs for some time. It shows the poor Hebrew and his family in dire poverty, their eviction from the garret, their only home. Later we see them safely aboard a steamer under the stars and stripes, bound for the land of the free. It is a splendid story. "The Washerwoman's Revenge" is without doubt the best comedy picture ever presented in Colorado Springs. It is a continuous laugh from start to finish. "The Cabby's Wife" is another comedy of great merit and is bound to please you. Still another comedy is "Music Hath Its Charms." This is simply great. It shows how a few strains of good music can make everybody happy. Clara Banigan is singing the great song hit "Way Back." Doors open from 1 to 11 p. m.

CARUSO AT OPERA HOUSE.

If you have never heard Enrico Caruso, the world's greatest tenor, whose name alone is sufficient to pack any house in the country, there is a treat in store for you at the Opera House this week, where this wonderful singer is heard by means of the Victor phonograph. The Victor machine is no longer to be considered a mere toy, but now it gives those who are unable to hear the great singers in person an opportunity of hearing them by means of the Victor. The records of the great opera singers are nothing short of miraculous. The voice is given out so true, and so near like the original, that if one did not know that it was not the singer himself one could easily be deceived. This week Manager Nye is offering Caruso in the great aria from Verdi's immortal opera "Aida," called "Celeste Aida." This great show piece for all tenors displays Caruso's wonderfully flexible and glorious voice. Other grand opera records are the "Flower Duet" from "Madame Butterfly," Puccini's beautiful music-tragedy of Japan, which was heard here last February. It is sung by Geraldine Farrar and Louise Homer, the original singers in the Metropolitan Grand Opera company production.

However fine the grand opera numbers may be, Manager Nye is not depending solely upon these to attract his public. He is offering an unusually fine and strong Cameraphone bill, which gives several excellent acts. Altogether the program as now offered at the Opera House is worth many times the small price of admission. The performances run from 2 to 5:30 and from 7 to 10:30 p. m.

PROF. FAY AT THE EMPIRE LAST NIGHT.

The overflowing audience at the Empire theater last night highly appreciated a handcuff and straight jacket act by Prof. Fay, the well known clairvoyant now in this city. Not only did he release himself within a very few moments from several pairs of handcuffs placed upon him by local detectives, but also from a regulation straight jacket, in which he was so tightly bound and strapped that the professor could not apparently move a muscle. The act was received with so much applause and enthusiasm from the audience that Manager Lubelski at once began negotiations with the professor to have him appear at the Empire all next week not only in the act as presented last night, but in a mind-reading and clairvoyancy turn as well.

SENDS MEMENTO FROM TOMB

Mother Will Get Frame of Wreath Laid on Her Son's Grave Years Ago.

When W. H. Salisbury, a well-known advertising man who is at the Spaulding house, visited the grave of Arthur J. Eddy at Silverton a few days since, he picked up the wire frame of a floral wreath which he had placed upon the then new mound 28 years ago. Mr. Salisbury brought it with him to Colorado Springs and will send it to the dead man's mother.

Eddy resided at Boone, Ia., where he and Salisbury were schoolmates and chums. The latter came west and died at Silverton while Salisbury was on his way to that camp, which was then only four years old.

Arriving at Silverton to find his friend dead, Salisbury employed a carpenter to build a fence about the young man's grave, and he sent to Denver for a floral wreath for the mound. All supplies reached Silverton in that day by wagon freight, so the flowers were not entirely fresh when they reached their destination. Salisbury placed the wreath with its wilted blossoms upon the lonely grave on the hillside as much for the sake of the sad little mother back east as for the memory of his friend.

Until his recent visit to Silverton he had not been back to the famous old camp in 28 years. He visited the grave of his friend and found that the fence had crumbled away and the bit of a pine tree which he had planted by the headstone had grown only about four feet in all those years. The headstone had been removed by the wind or some other agency and by an odd coincidence he picked it up about 100 feet from the grave. When replacing the small piece of board with its pathetic little story for the wayfarer, Mr. Salisbury discovered the frame of the wreath which he had placed there with his own hands more than a quarter of a century past. When he picked it up the crosswires crumbled away with rust, but the circular frame remained intact and he brought it away with him for the sake of the mother in the Iowa village, to whom the memory of the buoyant young prospector who left the cottage home in the Iowa village for the Colorado mountains, 28 years ago, is as fresh and as sweet in her life's twilight hour as the day he went away.

LEWIS' DECISION REVERSED

Case Against Portland Cement Company Must Be Retried.

Reversing Judge Lewis of the federal district court, who awarded William Duke, a laborer, a verdict for $6,000 against the Portland Gold Mining company in a personal injuries suit, the federal circuit court of appeals has sent the old case back for a retrial. In their decision the circuit court held that the old common law that employes were not liable in suits where an accident was caused through the negligence of a fellow servant, was predominant over later statute. Judge Lewis held against the company.

STRIKE ON RED BIRD

PICTURE ORE SAID TO HAVE BEEN FOUND.

Shoot 18 Inches in Width, Containing Seam Assaying 43 Ounces or $860 to Ton Uncovered.

Special to The Gazette.

According to a report from what is believed to be a reliable source, a strike of picture ore has been made on the Red Bird property of the National Land Mining and Tunnel company on the West slope of Gold hill under lease to the Maud S Mining and Development company. It is said that a shoot of ore has been opened up 18 inches in width, containing a seam assaying 43 ounces or $860 gold to the ton. The rest of the vein matter is estimated to return a yield of $40. This report could not be confirmed by the officers of the company, but neither was it denied. It is said that the company is now saving and sacking the rich ore broken from the vein and is preparing a shipment from the remainder of the vein matter which will be loaded out to one of the valley mills. The company expects to make a shipment by the first of next week. Within a short time a complete plant of mining machinery will be installed on the shaft of the Maud S property adjoining, which is owned by the company. The shaft will be sunk to a total depth of 300 feet by contract, from the present depth of 75 feet.

This property has not been prospected to any great extent and it is believed that with depth, ore of good grade can be opened up.

VEIN SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Find on South End of Property Is Yielding Good Values. Six Cars Shipped This Month.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Sept. 21.—Since the first of the month, six cars of ore have been shipped from that portion of the Mabel M., under lease to the Union Leasing company. The property, which is one of the holdings of the Gold Dollar Consolidated Gold Mining company, is located on Beacon hill and is operated by both the former company and the Beacon Hill Development company. The vein opened up on the south end of the property has shown a decided improvement in values as well as in the width of the shoot. At the back of the drift on the 300-foot level the shoot measured three feet between walls and as stoping progresses, the shoot shows a tendency to widen. The shipments for the month have averaged $35 to the ton. If the vein keeps improving the management will begin shipping at the rate of one car per day.

$3,000 FROM TWO CARS OF ORE

Mattie L. Producing Mineral of Good Grade—Lessees Take Option on South Part of Property.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Sept. 21.—Beaver and Henry, operating on the Mattie L. on the west slope of Gold hill, have secured an option on the south two and one-half acres of the property, the consideration named in the bond being $10,000. The lease has produced a large amount of ore, the bulk of which has been sent to a smelting grade.

Returns have been received from a two-car shipment made lately, which show the net profits from the shipment to be in excess of $3,000.

The lease was purchased by the present operators for the sum of $5,000 and has proven to be a good venture. Operations are being conducted through the main workings of the Anchoria Leland property adjoining. Another shipment will be loaded out the first of next week.

WHEAT PRICES LOWER

SEPTEMBER DELIVERY DOWN 1 1-4 AT THE CLOSE.

Small Bulge at Close Soon Followed by Decline—Corn and Oats Both Lower.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—The fact that December wheat at the outset rose 1-8 over the previous close was a whimsical progress, which for the lack of better reasons was ascribed to small country offerings and the bullishness of pit traders at a moment when there happened to be little pressure. The bulge was sufficient to bring out long wheat, to say nothing of the short article, and this state of affairs continue throughout today. Northwest receipts maintained their record-breaking proportions and the visible supply statement furnished evidence of a tremendous increase in stocks. This statement showed a gain for the week of 3,872,000 bushels, whereas last year at this time the visible supply decreased 1,041,000 bushels. Other bearish influences were the small export sales reported as compared with Saturday's enormous total; world's shipments one million bushels greater than expected; favorable weather in the Argentine; indifference of cables to Saturday's advances on this side and foreign advices to the effect that the cholera in Russia was not likely to result in an embargo by other nations on the products of the czar's domain. Closing losses ranged from 3-4 on May to 1-1-4 on September. Primary receipts were 2,901,000 bushels, again 1,118,000 a year ago. Seaboard clearances in wheat and flour were equal to 750,000 bushels. Local receipts were 59 cars, 13 of contract grade. The total for Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago was 2,037 cars against 1,263 last week and 814 a year ago.

The market for corn held its own for a few moments after the opening but followed this by a resumption of the recent declines. Closing prices were at the bottom, with December 1 3-4@1 7-8 under Saturday. Cash corn in the sample market ruled from 1-2 to 1c down. Local receipts were 500 cars, with 132 of contract grade.

Oats were dull and prices lower in sympathy with other cereals, although there was some influential buying on the soft spots. Closing prices were at the bottom, December off 1-2@5-8. Local receipts numbered 337 cars.

Provisions opened 2 1-2 higher on a light run of hogs and a sharp advance in the cash market at Liverpool. The advance called out liberal realizing sales, however, and closing prices on January products were from 5@7 1-2 to 20@22 1-2 under Saturday.

STOCK MARKET TIPS

(By leased wire to J. C. Cullens, broker, 201 Mining Exchange building.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Bache and company say: "With newspapers crowded with political news and the people filled daily with speeches and with both candidates on the platform it is impossible that prospects apparently varying daily will not keep the market irregular, and reactions and recoveries of marked character must be looked for until such time as a careful canvass throughout the country gives unmistakable evidence of the result."

Henry Clews and Company: "Fluctuations will be wide and frequent until after the election, thereby making good quick trading market likely."

Alfred Mestre and Company: "It would be well to pursue a very conservative course in the stock market dealings."

Charles Head and Company: "Pending the election the outlook favors a two-sided market where speculative purchases should be made on reactions for quick turns."

SLUMP IN SECURITIES

FROM ONE TO FIVE POINTS MEASURES LOSSES.

Speculative Liquidation on Large Scale. Politics Ruling Influence in Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—With active selling of stocks and acute weakness carried up to the very close of last week it was a matter of course that outside selling orders should be in considerable volume when operations began at the stock exchange today. From the standpoint of speculative sentiment alone, very pessimistic views of the outlook for values went out in weekly market reviews and letters from commission houses to clients. The active speculative position was on the selling side of the market. The passive position was on the same side, perforce. Urgent calls for additional margins went out to customers at the close of last week and failure to respond to these was followed by selling out to accounts. The opening decline in prices also broke through the limits of additional stop-loss orders and precipitated fresh liquidation on the market from this cause.

The task of supporting the market, therefore, proved difficult and it was some time in fact, before the support became effective with speculative liquidation on an enormous scale. Stocks which were supposed to be the favorite medium of speculative operations by the Standard Oil group of capitalists, were notably affected by the weakness. St. Paul was a conspicuous example. The copper industrials were affected by this supposed relationship.

This special weakness had its origin in the exposures of the last few days of former Standard Oil activities to influence political and legislative action. Reports were current in the financial district of plans for renewed attack on the Standard Oil organization from government sources. The effect of the exposures, it was felt, would be to invite renewed hostility to corporations in general and to the Standard Oil company in particular and to shape the political campaign more definitely in that direction. One of the strong factors in the late speculation for the rise in the stock market has been an assumption that agitation through the country on these lines was losing its force and venom. The episode of the publication of the Archbold-Foraker correspondence has caused some revision on this view in the financial district. A similar process of revision of earlier views of the business revival finds its place as an influence on the reactionary one of the securities market.

Talk regarding the copper trade as it was heard in the neighborhood of the stock exchange today, was not hopeful. Another marking down of the prices of copper at the metal exchange and of copper warrants in the lead market, gave point to the talk. There were reports of efforts to sell copper by consumers who had become overstocked. Officials of steel companies showed something like impatience over reports of large resumptions by steel mills in immediate prospect and took pains to assert the moderate rate of the improvement.

The effect of these factors on the stock market was seen in the disinclination of buyers to follow prices on any considerable recovery. The feeling of uneasiness gathered force, and the downward plunge at the end of the day was the consequence. From 1 to 5 points measures the range of the day's losses and in the Harrimans and Hills, St. Paul and Reading the damage runs from 3 to 4 3-4 points.

Bonds were weak. Total sales par value $[illegible]. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

NEWS OF THE LOCAL COURTS.

Charged with cruelty to animals, M. Jenkins, an expressman, was arrested by Humane Agent J. F. Neff yesterday, and will be brought before Justice W. N. Ruby this week. Jenkins is accused of mistreating a horse to such an extent that the animal dropped from exhaustion. It was later killed by Officer Neff.

Justice Ruby yesterday sentenced Emmet Healey to serve 10 days in the county jail on conviction of petty larceny.

The district court yesterday ordered the release of Hanson Handy, colored, who has completed a five-day sentence in the county jail for assault.

WOMAN TOUGHER THAN MAN.

Although men, as they run, are perhaps, muscularly stronger than women, their inability to withstand the elements and their reliance upon clothes places them considerably below the so-called weaker sex in the matter of unclothed toughness. Women wear clothes for ornament, men use them as protective covering. A group of men, marooned clothless on an island in the temperate zone, might be expected to die off in a month from drafts and colds and rheumatism. The health of women similarly placed would suffer little from the enforced exposure. The fact appears to be therefore, that in everything but muscle—in vitality, ruggedness, character, disposition, brain power, etc.—woman is the tougher, not the weaker sex.

Act Quickly.

Delay Has Been Dangerous in Colorado Springs.

Do the right thing at the right time. Act quickly in times of danger. Backache is kidney danger. Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly. Cure all distressing, dangerous kidney ills.

Plenty of evidence to prove this. Thomas N. McCullough, 321 South Weber street, Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "About twelve or fifteen years ago I began to be greatly troubled with my back and kidneys. The attacks would come on very suddenly and for three weeks at a time I would be unable to turn over in bed. The kidney secretions were in a terrible condition. At times there would be almost a complete retention, and when passed they would be accompanied by severe pain. At others they were very frequent in action, contained much sediment and greatly broke my rest at night. I used a great many remedies, but had been unsuccessful in finding relief. I finally began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the D. Y. Butcher Drug Co. I felt great relief shortly after taking them, and after completing the contents of the first box was completely free from any sign of kidney trouble. I can go still further and state the cure has proven permanent. I owe my present good health to Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Shoes of Merit

The well dressed man of today looks for far more in a shoe than mere durability. Nearly all good shoe manufacturers use good leathers, but the shoe making varies greatly according to the skill of the craftsman.

What may be accomplished by skilled workmen is well shown in our men's shoes at $3.50, $4.00, $5 and $6.

All the good leathers that are now in vogue in our fall models.

Every pair of these shoes is a testimonial to the makers' ability, and the man that buys a pair of them will wear them with pride and satisfaction.

MAINE'S BIG LOBSTER

One of the largest lobsters taken in Maine waters in recent years was caught near Biddeford Pool last week. It weighed 11½ pounds. As compared with the lobsters usually seen this was a giant. Harry B. Ayer, register of probate in New York county, drew the prize while hauling traps. Mr. Ayer will have the specimen set up. Various estimates as to the probable age of this veteran were given by fishermen and others around the pool. One gave it as his opinion that the lobster was from 40 to 50 years old.

Dressy coats of voile, silk, etc., will have silk [illegible] for elaboration.
